INTRODUCTION

THE principal facts about the exploits of the American navy during the first few years of the Revolutionary War are sufficiently well known to modern readers. Our early historians of that important period have left us many interesting details of the navy's activities and of the remarkable successes of the countless vessels that, fitted out in private ventures, scoured the seas to the very ports and shores of the mother country. Based upon these old, contemporary narratives, more modern accounts have since been written, but all, alike, by confining themselves to what may almost be called the traditional sources,—sources that concerned only the American point of view,—necessarily made an understanding of the conditions of that struggle upon the sea partial and imperfect.

The various papers and documents which fill this volume are, therefore, meant as an essential complement to the materials which heretofore have been available to the historians of our Revolutionary War. They reveal to us, forcibly at times, the character of the naval operations as viewed by the British sailor engaged in the disagreeable task of coercion; the situation in the revolting colonies; the conditions attending the blockade of the extensive coast-line of continental America; the hardships endured by the ships' companies; the difficulties under which the commanders struggled; and the extent to which their activities were hampered by the almost continued lack of food and supplies.

The documents included in the present volume are drawn mostly from the series of "Admirals' Despatches" in the Public Record Office in London, England, transcripts of which were a few years ago acquired by the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress. Others are taken from the "Secret Letters" and the "Secretary's Letters to Commanding Officers" and the "Orders and Instructions"; and in some cases the "Captains' Logs" and "Captains' Letters" have been consulted and used.

Besides these there is also included a document which the student of United States naval history may find of greater interest than all others contained in these pages. It is the log-book of the 14-gun brig "Andrew Doria," one of the most successful cruisers that sailed under the Rattlesnake Flag and among the first of the "Continental" vessels to put to sea after the regular organization of the navy. This "Journal" was kept by James Josiah, her first lieutenant, who later was captured while in charge of one of her prizes.[1] The record in this way fell into the hands of the British admiral, by whom it was promptly forwarded to London as being of especial interest. The period covered in its twenty-eight pages is from January 4, 1776, the day the first American squadron under Commodore Esek Hopkins sailed from Philadelphia, to June 11 in the same year, when H.M.S. "Cerberus" fell in with the little cruiser and her valuable captures. It is among the earliest records of our own navy, and without doubt the first log-book of an American public armed vessel.

From the very moment that hostilities began between

Great Britain and her American colonies, the fact became evident to the British authorities that the control of the sea would have a preponderant effect upon the contest. It was clear to reason, for the thousand miles of sea-coast, with its many interior navigable watercourses, presented a military advantage scarcely to be found in the indifferent communications of the unimproved wilderness on shore. In fact, it was the opinion of military men in the mother country—among others, of the Secretary at War, Lord Barrington[1]—that the operations should be entirely naval. Occupy the principal ports, cut off the coastwise trade, and make occasional predatory excursions inland, they urged. Any other plan would be doomed to failure.[2] To attempt to conquer America by a land war, declared General Harvey, one of the military chiefs of the kingdom, was as wild an idea as ever controverted common sense. America, he wrote, was "an ugly job," and the army, if it attempted the impossible, would be destroyed by "damned driblets."[3]

When the strength of the British navy, which then had no enemy in Europe to oppose, is considered, one would think that such a suggestion might have found favor with the ministry. But they had other plans in view, and, blind to the real conditions, set about putting their own ideas into execution. Parliament opened on the last day of November, 1774, and the King's speech took note of the resistance to the law which prevailed in Massachusetts. But the colonists were generally despised among the military men at home, and were looked upon as cowards by those high in office. Lord Sandwich, of the Admiralty, averred that their conduct in a previous war had been represented to him "as in the highest degree dastardly," and that he would answer for it that they "will bluster and swell when danger is at a distance, but when it comes near will, like all other mobs, throw down their arms and run away."[1] And this was an article of the ministerial creed which no one ventured to dispute.[2]

In the course of the summer of 1775, however, the British government gradually opened its eyes to the fact that a war, and a serious war, was actually staring it in the face. The coercive acts, of which so much had been expected, had proved a complete failure, from the absence of sufficient means to enforce them, and, more terrifying still, the unpromising crisis had revealed the weakened state into which the armed forces of the kingdom had been suffered to decline. The number of ships in the navy since 1770, and the number of seamen, had been let down to a figure dangerously low even for times of peace; the machinery to cope with the inevitable wastage of war did not exist even on paper; while the lax and corrupt administration of Lord Sandwich[3] at the Admiralty rotted the dockyards and demoralized the personnel.[4] In materiel and numbers the fleet was

[4] Contemporary observers noted that party spirit, increasing since 1765, was at its height between 1770 and 1782—"a fact unfortunate inadequate even for the task of 1775. As late as December, 1774, the establishment of seamen had been reduced from twenty thousand to sixteen thousand, while the army was left at its old number, and in the spring of 1775 was increased only by a paltry four thousand.[1] In vain the King pleaded for troops. Not until August was an increase authorized by Parliament, and then it was found easier to vote the money and the number required than to find the men.[2]

The naval force at the disposal of the admirals commanding on the North American Station, who, until Lord Howe took up the command on July 12, 1776, were John Montagu, Samuel Graves, and Molyneux Shuldham, was always insufficient to patrol effectively the long seaboard (see pp. 38, 68, 77, 152–155, 167, 212). Most of the vessels available were necessarily limited to aiding the army at Boston, to seeking stores for the troops (see p. 167), and to supplying the naval brigade, while the rest were endeavoring to overawe hundreds of miles of sea-coast swarming with active seamen who were thrown out of employment by the interruption of trade.[3] It was perhaps the most ungracious duty that ever has fallen to the lot of a naval officer, embarrassed, besides, by the want of exact instructions. For a long time, the only addition to their instructions, beyond those usual in times of peace, was for the naval power of England," as Captain Mahan aptly remarks, for, with the notable exception of Rodney, almost all of the distinguished admirals of the time were Whigs.

[1] Fortescue, III, 170.

[2] It was calculated that the revolt of the colonies had deprived England of at least eighteen thousand seamen. (The Annual Register, 1778, p. 201.)

an order to carry out the provisions of the Boston Port Bill (see p. 10), and that it was impossible to do without a due number of small craft, well manned and armed—craft such as were not to be found on the station (see p. 114). It is not to be wondered at, then, that during the first few years the insurrection continued to gather strength, or that an incompetent ministry at home should make the commanders responsible for the hopeless state of affairs. The tactlessness of Montagu in fretting the colonists during the earlier stages of the quarrel, and the helplessness of Graves when the fighting actually began, have been advanced as contributing causes of the loss of Boston,[1] but no charge was ever made against them, nor were they directly blamed. They were guilty, however, of not succeeding under circumstances where success was impossible, and each was in turn superseded in command.

Admiral Molyneux Shuldham was born about 1717, and was the son of Rev. Samuel Shuldham. The boy entered the navy in 1732, and saw his first service with Captain George Forbes, afterwards Earl of Granard, as captain's servant on board the "Cornwall." Later he served in the "Solebay" and for nearly four years in the "Falkland." In 1738–1739, when "near twenty-two," he passed his examination, and on August 31, 1739, was promoted to be lieutenant of the "Tilbury," one of the ships which went out to the West Indies with Sir Chaloner Ogle, and was present at the unsuccessful attack on Cartagena in 1741. His first independent command was in the "Sheerness" frigate (May 12, 1746), and he was successively in command of the "Queensborough," "Unicorn," and "Seaford." In March, 1755, he sailed for the West Indies in the "Warwick," of 60 guns, but near Martinique fell in with a French 74-gun ship and two frigates, from which he was unable to escape. After two years' imprisonment at Poitiers, he was finally exchanged, and immediately ordered to join Commodore Moore in the West Indies, where he took part in the reduction of Guadeloupe and its dependent islands (March–May, 1759). The year 1766 found him at Plymouth, on board the "Cornwall" guardship, and in 1770 his orders assigned him to the "Royal Oak." Then, in February, 1772, came his first chief command, when he was assigned to the Newfoundland Station, an office which he held for three years. On March 31, 1775, he was promoted to be Rear-Admiral of the White (see p. 1). In the following autumn, at the general election, he was returned to the House of Commons as member for Fowey, but soon after he was again ordered to sea, and on September 29 directed to proceed to Boston as commander-in-chief of the North American Station (see p. 6).

The instructions issued from the Admiralty to Shuldham on September 29 (see p. 6) were those already forwarded to his predecessor, and embodied such directions for drastic measures as the government thought necessary to bring the insurgent colonists to terms. On the 3d of October the admiral hoisted his flag on the "Chatham" and reported his readiness to sail (see p. 14), but the wind was unfavorable, and three days later he was still at Spithead, storm-bound. The delay, however, gave him the opportunity of unburdening his feelings at the manner in which his flag-ship had been fitted out. His apartment, he wrote, was unfit for an officer of his rank, owing to "the false and ill judg'd Oecon-omy, which prevails in our Dock Yards," while his ship was so old and inconvenient that he dreaded the thought of her being his constant residence (see pp. 15, 19). But none other was to be had, and he had to submit with the best grace possible, and take advantage of the first fair wind to start on his way westward (see pp. 25, 27).

It was two months, however, before the "Chatham" beat up Boston Harbor. A constant succession of storms and contrary winds baffled her every effort to shorten the passage, and when, on December 30, she finally anchored off the beleaguered town, she was so severely battered that it was weeks before she again was reported fit for sea (see p. 37). We can imagine the feelings of Admiral Graves on seeing his successor arrive; surely the disappointment at not having accomplished more must have been compensated by the feeling of joy at being able at last to turn over his ungracious duty to another. For the victory of Bunker Hill had made no change in the position of General Gage's army, which suffered greatly from the want of wholesome food and from other privations. All marketing from the country was at an end, as the town was closely invested on every side and the islands were cleared of their crops and live-stock; no fresh meat was to be had, and the unfortunate soldiery fasted alternately on salt beef and salt pork. It was a situation difficult to believe possible: the army of the world's greatest sea-power, strongly entrenched in a seaport town, yet faring no better than sailors on an ill-found merchantman towards the close of a long voyage.

When the condition of the besieged garrison became known to the ministry, every effort was made to supply their wants by profuse expenditure. Five thousand oxen, fourteen thousand sheep, and a huge consignment of hogs were purchased and sent out alive; fresh vegetables of all kinds were cured by a special process; five thousand "chaldrons" of coal were shipped, with the very fagots necessary to kindle them; while oats, beans, and hay for the horses, and nearly half a million of money, were added to provide for every contingency. "The immense charge of supplying an army at such a distance, was now for the first time experimentally felt"[1] (see pp. 87–102, 170, 174, 209). But the transports sailed too late in the season; contrary winds kept them long on the very coasts of England; the preserved vegetables fermented and had to be thrown overboard; and the vessels were storm-tossed until the greater part of their live cargo perished (see p. 39). Such of the victuallers as neared their destination found themselves beating vainly against the periodical winds; others were driven towards the West Indies (see pp. 159, 165, 169); while those that survived as likely as not found themselves face to face with the guns of a hostile navy the first intimation of whose existence was a shot fired across their bows (see p. 112). In fact, such was their distress that Shuldham repeatedly besought the Admiralty to send no further stores or supplies except in armed vessels of sufficient force to resist capture by the American privateers which now swarmed the seas and hovered like birds of prey about every avenue of approach (see pp. 38, 77, 257).

Nor was this his only cause for alarm. From Philadelphia came the intelligence that the Continental Congress had authorized the construction of thirteen frigates, and that a number of armed vessels were actually fitting out for service on the southern coast (see p. 60).[1] Not long before, eight small vessels had been despatched by Washington to the waters of the St. Lawrence River (see p. 41),[2] and every effort was now to be made to drive the King's blockaders off the coast. Already one daring attempt had been made to destroy a man-of-war by the enterprising Bushnell, and it was unhesitatingly predicted that not many weeks would elapse before "you may expect to see the ships in smoke" (see p. 41). Yet what was the admiral to do? What few ships he had were scarcely sufficient to guard the port of Boston and perform the services already required of them. He was almost distracted by the frequent appeals for assistance and protection that came to him from every part of his station and from the West Indies.[3] A serious incursion had already been made upon the island of St. Johns (see p. 69); from Quebec came intelligence of the most alarming nature (see pp. 145, 148); the naval depot at Halifax was without men or defences and utterly helpless to withstand attack (see pp. 57, 145); Lord Dunmore was reported in dire straits in Virginia (see p. 43); and the Province of New Hampshire had broken out in open revolt and her governor was a fugitive from his residence in the colony (see p. 64). But what was infinitely more serious, the Americans were enjoying so flourishing a trade along the eastern coast that every ship brought supplies of much-needed war material and precious gunpowder from the West Indies and from the different ports of Europe, where they found themselves only too readily served (see pp. 31, 32, 72, 74, 136, 163).

In the meantime the army remained inactive, blockaded in Boston, distressed by cold, and in want of everything (see p. 107).[1] Week after week, month after month, passed by without any improvement in the situation. General Howe, however, was contemplating the withdrawal of his forces. As early as July, 1775, such a step had been urged upon the ministry by his predecessor in command. Three months later Howe had been informed that he might concentrate his army at some more advantageous base for future operations, and he now proceeded to choose his own moment for the step which he had so long delayed.[2]

But that was not to be. On the evening of the 4th of March, Washington decided to take the offensive. Dorchester Heights were occupied overnight, and when the British army awoke from its slumbers two works were already in existence and in a condition to protect their defenders from bombardment and assault. Over twelve thousand men, declared the astonished Shuldham, must have been employed on the fortifications to have completed them in so short a time; and Howe is said to have remarked that his entire army could not have done as much in a month. But the forts were there and the only alternative was to drive the Americans out of their advanced and commanding position. Two thousand troops were embarked and held in readiness to make the attack at dusk. But by that time it was too late. The wind blew a gale. The boats could not be rowed across the bay in such weather. All through the afternoon and night of the day following the storm raged, and by the time that it grew calm again it was evident that no force could possibly drive the Americans out of their redoubts. Their guns commanded the southeastern side of the town and every anchorage in the harbor. The situation was dangerous in the extreme, and Howe had no alternative but to evacuate at once. Ten days elapsed, however, before the embarkation could be completed (see pp. 107, 137, 141). In the meantime Washington kept up an almost continuous cannonade, and, as a significant hint that the patience of the besiegers was becoming exhausted, fortified Nook's Hill, a mile nearer to Boston than Dorchester Heights. That was the notice to leave. The intimation was given on the 16th of March; on the 17th General Howe embarked his army, and Shuldham, with his men-of-war, accompanied by a fleet of transports,[1] dropped down to Nantasket Roads, and a few days later sailed for Halifax, where Howe hoped soon to receive the reinforcements which would enable him to strike at New York.

[1] Only a few days previous to the evacuation, the army was so "very distress'd" for want of provisions, that Shuldham had to furnish a month's supply out of the naval stores, as otherwise the troops could not have subsisted for more than fourteen days longer, "and except a Supply arrives very speedily for both services," urged the admiral in alarm, "the consequences must be fatal" (see pp. 107, 137).

[2] Fortescue, III, 169.

Then began an uninterrupted harvest for the American privateers. They made an easy prey of the victuallers and transports which were bringing the precious supplies and the very reinforcements for which Howe was waiting. When the belated, storm-tossed vessels at last reached the waters of New England, the royal forces had gone for good, and the entire sea-coast was alive with cruisers which swarmed about as if the squadron which Shuldham had left in Nantasket Roads to see them safely to Halifax had never existed. A number of transports were captured[1]—two of them by one of the Continental armed vessels, the "Andrew Doria"[2] (see pp. 273, 301), an occurrence which annoyed the British to such an extent that when one of her officers was captured on board a prize with his journal of her cruise in his possession, the document was promptly forwarded to their lordships at the Admiralty as evidence of the activities of the rebels, and "in justice" to some of the officers of the Royal Navy (see p. 273).

[1] Nearly eighty armed vessels and transports were required to carry away the army and its followers, while the large number of other vessels, laden with stores and merchandise, accompanying the fleet, increased the total to one hundred and seventy sail in all. (Winsor: Narr. and Crit. Hist. of America, Vol. VI, p. 158.)

Bad as it was, that was not the worst of the story. At the very moment when Howe and Shuldham needed every possible reinforcement that could be sent to them from home, the King and his ministers suffered themselves to be persuaded to send an expedition to the Southern provinces in order to rally the loyalists of that section and wrench the country from radical control.[3] General Clinton, under express orders from home, started for the Carolinas in December with a detachment withdrawn from the already inadequate army in

[1] Emmons' The Navy of the United States, pp. 133, 149; Cooper's History of the Navy, I, 87, 88.

[2] It is said of this cruiser that she made prizes of so many merchantmen that when she got back into the Delaware but five of the sailors who composed her original crew were in her, the rest having been put in the prizes and their places supplied by volunteers from among the prisoners.

[3] The Admiralty's despatch, dated November 11, 1775, apprising Shuldham of the preparation of this expedition did not reach him until the latter part of March, 1776 (see pp. 29, 33, 157).

New England. But the expedition was long in preparing (see p. 162); it did not leave Cork till the 12th of February; the vessels encountered heavy weather; none arrived at Cape Fear before the first week in May, and some even later. Meantime the loyalist Scots had been stirred up to take arms, but the royal forces failed to appear at the appointed time, and the luckless men, unsupported, were easily intercepted and utterly routed. Then, just five months too late, Sir Peter Parker appeared on the scene with his heavy ships and frigates. A junction with Clinton was at last effected, but the combined force was all too feeble for independent action. A half-hearted attempt was made upon the outworks guarding Charleston Harbor, but the affair resulted only in a useless bombardment, and the ill-considered expedition ended in nothing short of a calamity for the commodore and his vessels.

In the meantime the army lay helpless at Halifax, awaiting the provision-ships which by this time were so belated as to make Howe tremble for the very subsistence of his troops (see p. 187). "Nothing to eat; less to drink," wrote a British officer on the 17th of March,[1] and there is no doubt that starvation would have stared them in the face had not Shuldham put his crews on two-thirds allowance in order to share what little he had with the famished soldiers (see p. 198). It was sad work at best. But the tragedy of the whole story was that from nowhere came good news to cheer up the forces in their "present desperate insignificancy."[2] None of the detached squadrons had been able to maintain their stations uninterruptedly or perform the services which had been expected of them. At New York,

[1] Trevelyan, I, 383. [2] Ibid.

Captain Parker had been obliged early to retire from before the town, and to anchor his three unseaworthy vessels off the Narrows. With the withdrawal of the King's army from New England, all chances of "uninterrupted success" in the province vanished. The town became the headquarters of the American forces, which poured in from all sides, and cut off supplies of fresh provisions from Parker's ships. The colonists even had the temerity to fit out privateers along the waterfront, and to begin the construction of two frigates at Poughkeepsie; and on one occasion they actually captured, within sight of Sandy Hook, a storeship carrying coals, porter, etc., to the British army (see pp. 109–115, 223–229).

Nor was the situation more hopeful further south. Captain Hamond, who there had two ships and a sloop, "ill-manned[1] and sickly," under his command, had promised to do his utmost to execute his orders, but he had to confess that the Delaware had become rather formidable and that he hardly expected to accomplish anything without a much larger force. One of his vessels had to remain constantly at Norfolk to give protection to the governor; no fewer than two could properly guard the Chesapeake; while along the Delaware River such extensive fortifications had been erected by the rebels that he despaired of ever checking their activities without the coöperation of at least two or three hundred troops (see p. 143).

[1] That the vessels of the British navy were not maintained in the most efficient state is revealed in the correspondence of the naval officers on the station. "I am very much distressed for Petty officers, as well as Warrants," wrote Captain Price, commanding the Viper sloop, in 1775. "My Carpenter infirm and past duty, my Gunner made from a livery servant, neither seaman nor gunner; my Master a man in years, never an officer before, made from a boy on board one of the guardships, he then keeping a public house at Gosport. Petty Officers I have but one, who owns himself mad at times. A Master's Mate I have not, nor anyone I can make a Boatswain's mate. I have not one person I could trust with the charge of a vessel I might take to bring her in." (Hannay's Short History of the Royal Navy, II, 215, 216.) In fact, so short-handed had the ships become a year later, that their commanders had no choice but to enter Americans taken out of "rebel" prizes in order to fill up their complements—a situation which Shuldham contemplated with alarm, in view of the constant diminution of British seamen on the muster-rolls of his fleet (see p. 206).

The very day that Hamond penned this letter a frigate was on her way to join his feeble force. She was the "Glasgow," of twenty guns, commanded by Captain Tyringham Howe, and bore important despatches from the commander-in-chief (see p. 169). But she never reached her destination. Shortly after leaving Rhode Island, on the morning of the 6th of April, she fell in with the American squadron under Esek Hopkins,[1] which was returning from its successful descent upon New Providence Island, and was so badly cut up that she could not be properly refitted at Halifax, and Shuldham was consequently obliged to order her to England as soon as temporary repairs had been effected (see pp. 177–186, 287).

By this time the spring was far advanced, and no change had come in the situation of the forces at Halifax, except that an occasional convoy managed to reach that haven of refuge (see pp. 211, 219). Reinforcements, however, were on their way from home. Of that fact assurances had already been received. But General Howe, in his impatience, suddenly decided to sail without them. He had been desperately uncomfortable at Halifax,—that nook of penury and cold,[1]—and it is no wonder that he took advantage of the first fair wind to shape his course for the entrance of New York Harbor. On the way he picked up several transports with Highland troops on board, that had not been intercepted by American privateers, and with this small but welcome increase in his depleted force, he effected a landing on July 3d on Staten Island (see p. 272), to the great joy of Governor Tryon, who, for the past twelvemonth, had been vainly attempting to administer his province from the deck of a man-of-war at anchor off Sandy Hook. Nine days later the long expected reinforcements arrived from England. On that day a ship-of-war, flying the St. George's flag at the fore, sailed up the lower bay and was greeted with a general salute from all the royal vessels which lay in the harbor. Admiral Lord Howe had arrived, and Shuldham's tenure of the command of the King's naval forces in American waters had come to an end. For several months longer he remained on the coast, as a subordinate to the new commander-in-chief, when he was finally ordered home (see p. 312), having been in American waters a little over ten months.

As to the method pursued in this volume, a word may be said here. The arrangement of the documents is necessarily arbitrary, being chronological, except in the case of enclosures, which are invariably placed with the despatches with which they belong. Though not wholly satisfactory, this has seemed the simplest and most logical system of arranging the papers. It should be borne in mind, however, that the letters never reached those for whom they were intended until a considerable period after they were penned. Thus (p. 156) we have the Secretary to the Admiralty Board writing to Shuldham on March 27, 1776; and on p. 157 we find the Admiral (Shuldham) writing to their lordships on the same date, that he had had no communication from them since a previous letter of January 16. The fact is, of course, that the reader sees these letters chronologically, and earlier than they reached either Shuldham or the Admiralty; but any attempt to arrange the papers in the order in which they reached and influenced their recipients would have led to endless difficulties and confusion.

In concluding, the editor desires most gratefully to acknowledge his obligation to the Lords of the Admiralty for permitting him to have access to these records in London; to Mr. Gaillard Hunt, of the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress, for allowing the library's transcripts of the "Admirals' Despatches" to be made use of; and to Mr. Frank J. Klingberg for his assistance in calendering the records previous to their being copied.

But the editor's thanks are particularly due to Professor Charles M. Andrews, of Yale University, for his interest and generous assistance in discovering for him and securing transcripts of the more important of the "Out-Letters" and "Secret Orders"; and to Professor Wilbur C. Abbott, of Yale University, from whose suggestions the idea of this work sprang.

Craven Street 1st. Septemr. 1775—

Sir,

As I have received Orders to hold myself in readiness to proceed on a Command to North America, I beg leave to represent to you, for their Lordships information, that in my Opinion it will contribute much to the preservation of the Health of the Seamen Employ'd in that Country (where we shall be cut off from all Supplys of Vegetables from the Provinces that are in Arms) if they would please to give Orders for a Vessel to be sent, from time to time, either from this Kingdom or Ireland with Potatoes & Carrots & Parsnips & Onions, which will keep good for many Months, especially if She can be dispatched so as to arrive at Boston before the Frost sets in, which seldom happens 'till after Christmas; and while I am writing upon this subject may I be permitted to add, that it would be greatly instrumental in answering the above purpose, if a small Vessel of 80 or 100 Tons, was to Sail from Lisbon or Oporto with Onions, Oranges, Lemons, &ca. by the End of October, and another of the same size by the End of February; as I presume the Commander in Chief will (if he is not already) be Authorized to send a small Vessel at proper Seasons to the Bahama Islands for Turtle, Oranges, Chaddocks, Limes &ca., the want of the usual and necessary refreshments will by these means be in a great measure supplied, and the Health of the Seamen preserved. I am, Sir,

Sir

The Chatham was unmoor'd yesterday with a Moderate Wind at WNWt. and I expected you would have been informed of her being at Sea, but about three OClock it came round to the SWt. in which Quarter it continues now blowing fresh and Captain Raynor was under a necessity of giving Orders to moor again. This detention gives me an Opportunity of representing to you the Careless and unfinished manner in which I found my Appartment, as well as those of the Captain and Officers of the Chatham, indeed mine so very unfit for an Officer of my Rank that I am sure there is not a Man on board her who is not furnished with a more Warm and comfortable Lodging; whether this is owing to the negligence of the Workmen, or those who overlook them, or to the false and ill judg'd Œconomy, which prevails in our Dock Yards, is not my business to enquire, but I am confident, Sir, it is a matter of such importance that requires the interposition of their Lordships Authority to enquire into and correct in all His Majesty's Ships, but particularly in those destined on the laborious Service, and in the severe Climate where I am appointed to Command, lest their Lordships should suppose I have exaggerated in this representation I beg leave to refer them for a confirmation of the truth of it, to Commissioner Gambier and Sir Peter Parker who did me the honor to dine with me yesterday on board the Chatham.

As the Season is now so far advanced that it is likely I shall meet very severe Weather on the Coast of America, I apprehend the Weight & Inconvenience of the Flat bottom Boat now on board may be of very bad consequence, therefore should be glad to be disincumber'd of her, and that she may be sent at a more favourable opportunity. As Their Lordships have been pleased to appoint me to the important Command at North America, I must take the liberty of representing to you, that the Chatham is the worst and Oldest of any of the Fifty Gunships upon that Service, as well as extremely unfit and inconvenient for a Flag-Officer Commanding in Chief on a Service where his Ship is to be his constant residence, without the probability of lying a Night out of her during the course of his Command; I must therefore beg the favour you will signifie my request to Their Lordships, that they will please to Order, that the Vigilant at this Port may be fitted properly for me and sent out in the Spring; the difference of the Draught of Water is Trifling and the additional number of Men I am confident will never want constant and necessary Employment. His Majesty having judged it expedient that a Body of Land Forces supported by a Squadron of Ships of War should be sent to North or South Carolina not only to encourage & support His loyal Subjects in those and the adjacent Colonies to the Southward, but in order to make a Division from the Rebel Army acting against His Towns to the Northward; I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you therewith, and that in consequence thereof Sir Peter Parker in the Bristol with the Ships and Bomb Vessel named in the Margin (Actaeon, Boreas, Solebay, Deal Castle, Sphynx, Thunder, Bomb), will proceed from Corke in about a Month's time with Seven Regiments of Foot to Cape Fear, where he will be joined by the Syren, now under orders to proceed from Plymouth, with Dispatches to the Governors of North and South Carolina to collect such information as may be necessary to regulate the Operations of the said Sea & Land Forces. – – Their Lordships will send Duplicates of the abovementioned Dispatches as also Dispatches to the Governors of Georgia and East Florida, upon the same subject, in a few days by the Hawke Sloop, whose Commander will also join Sir Peter off Cape Fear with such Advices as he shall have obtained, and when Sir Peter can conveniently spare the Sloop, proceed to Jamaica to reinforce the Squadron under the Command of Rear Admiral Gayton.

[1] Admiralty Records, Secretary's Department, Secret Letters, vol. 1333.

As it is probable that from the Advices Sir Peter Parker may receive upon his arrival on the Coast, the Operations may be directed against Charles Town; the reinforcement of one, or two, two-decked Ships, may contribute greatly to the success thereof; Their Lordships therefore recommend it to you to send the Experiment, or a 40 Gun-ship, or both, to join Sir Peter off Cape Fear, if you can spare them from other Services; In which case you will also send him any Pilots you can collect who are acquainted with the Ports on that part of the Coast, and such Advices of the State of Affairs in America as you may think proper to communicate to him.

Their Lordships command me to add that altho' Sir Peter Parker is appointed to Command upon this particular Service, you are nevertheless to consider the Ships that accompany him as a part of your Squadron, and to take both him & them under your command & employ them in such manner as you shall judge best for the General Service; without diverting them however from the Operations beforementioned, the progress & success of which he will be instructed to inform you of.—But when these Operations are over, you will direct Sir Peter Parker to station the Ships he has with him in such manner as you shall think most proper; And to the end that they may be the better enabled to continue upon those Stations, their Lordships have ordered a Storeship & a Victualler to be prepared to send with the Squadron from England in order to supply their wants.

Sir,

My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty were pleased in a Letter from Mr. Stephens dated the 11th. of Novemr. last, which was forwarded by the Triton, to acquaint you that His Majesty had judged it expedient that a Body of Land Forces supported by a Squadron of Ships of War under the command of Sir Peter Parker should be sent to North or South Carolina with a view to the Objects mentioned in the said Letter.

The Triton sailed from Plymouth on the 21st. of Novemr., but on the 14th. of last Month had the misfortune of losing all her Masts in a hard gale of Wind, which has obliged her to return to Plymouth and now lays their Lordships under the disagreable circumstance of transmitting their aforementioned information in this Letter by the Milford, whose sailing at this time may probably occasion the Reinforcement you are therein directed to send to assist the Operations of Sir Peter Parker's Squadron to arrive later than was expected; but it is from that reason more strongly recommended by their Lordships that upon the Milford's arrival you give such immediate Orders with respect to such Reinforcement as you conceive will be most effectual to his Majesty's Service.

The Instructions given to Sir Peter Parker being drawn conformable to what is mentioned in Mr. Stephens's aforementioned Letter, I have only to trouble you further on this Subject with observing that the Boreas which was intended to have made part of his Squadron, in turning from Spithead unfortunately got on the Dean Sand and received such damages as made it expedient to order the Active to proceed in her room.––That the Deal castle another of his Squadron has likewise had the misfortune to lose her Masts, but it is expected she may be refitted so as to arrive on her Station by the time or soon after Sir Peter shall get there.––That their Lordships instead of ordering the Hawke as mentioned to you in Mr. Stephens's Letter to join the Squadron at Jamaica, have directed Sir Peter to continue her as one of the Vessels under his Command; And that an addition is made thereto of the Carcass Bomb and the Friendship a hired Vessel of 489 Tons to serve occasionally as a Transport or Armed Vessel, for which last mentioned purpose she is provided with Eighteen Nine Pounders & Six Six Pounders and a proper proportion of Ordnance Stores.

The severity of the Weather which there has been of late has prevented the Ships employed on this Expedition assembling at Corke so early as was expected; the Ships of War are now on their passage thither, and my Lords have confidence that no time will be lost in embarking the Troops and putting to Sea the first favorable opportunity that may afterwards offer. Chatham, Boston 15th. January 1776.

Sir

I have the pleasure to acquaint you of my Arrival here in His Majesty's Ship Chatham the 30th. past after a passage of Sixty One Days; for a Circumstantial Account of the Occurrences of which, I beg to refer you to my Journal accompanying this Letter, in which I shall only say on that Subject; that the Voyage was almost a constant Succession of Storms and contrary Winds, attended with the most severe Weather I ever felt, which has so Shatter'd the Chatham that she must remain unfit for any Sea Service 'till she is Caulked and repaired; This I hope we shall be able to do here before she is wanted. You will see by my Journal, Sir, that the Orpheus parted Company from me in a most Violent Gale of Wind on the 21st. November notwithstanding the great care and attention of Captain Hudson, who is not yet arrived; and that Captain Munroe, Commanding the Party of Marines on board the Chatham, Dy'd the 30th. of the same Month.

Immediately on my Arrival I delivered all the Packets committed to my care, to Admiral Graves and General Howe, and communicated to the Admiral the Copys of those Letters you had furnished me with and wrote to him lately, the Originals of many of which he has not yet received, and I presume are in the Experiment and Centurion, not yet arrived; I likewise communicated to him your Letters (with the Intelligence accompanying them) Signifying their Lordships Orders to me, to send Vessels of proper Force and Size to the River Delaware, to oppose the Operations the Rebels are carrying on there, and to send a Vessel to Bermuda and another to the Bahama Islands, to protect the Ordnance Stores belonging to His Majesty at those Islands but I am glad to inform you, that Admiral Graves has certain Intelligence that the Inhabitants of Providence are faithfully affected to His Majesty, and are determined, and able to defend those Stores without any Additional Force; and as soon as any proper Vessel arrives after Admiral Graves's Departure, I shall send her to Bermuda.

I was much concerned to hear on my Arrival of the Number of small Arm'd Vessels fitted out by the Rebels, and which had taken many unarmed Ones of Ours bringing Stores and Supplies to this place notwithstanding it appears to me, that our Cruizers are Stationed and distributed in all the most likely places to intercept them; and that there has been no failure on the part of Our Officers; but the Success of the Rebels may reasonably be accounted for, if Their Lordships will please to consider the Advantage they have over us by being too early Suffer'd to take possession of all the Harbours, Creeks and Rivers on this Coast, many of which they have Fortify'd, and where these small Vessels Lye ready, 'till by Signals from Eminences on the shore of a Vessel in the Offin, they push out and Seize her before it is possible for our Cruizers to Relieve, or perhaps from the Sholeness of the Water venture to follow her; for this reason, Sir, I beg leave to recommend it to their Lordships, that no Stores or Supplys may be sent in future except in Arm'd Vessels, which will Answer a double purpose by leaving part of their Men on their return home for the use of the Fleet, which I find is in great want, as well as the number of Ships far from Sufficient for the Various Services I am Order'd, and shall find Necessary to execute, which Their Lordships I doubt not will be convinced of by observing, that this place will in a few days be left unprotected by any other Naval Force than the Chatham and Lively Frigate under repair. Convoys are not to be depended on, for by the Fogs which prevail upon this Coast in the Summer and the Violent Northwest Winds in the Winter Seasons, it is almost impossible to prevent Seperation.

Of the Thirty five Vessels Freighted by Mure and Company with Provisions and Supplys for the use of the Fleet and Army only Eight are Arrived, and on board those not above a Twentieth part of the Sheep were brought in Alive.

I must beg leave to refer you for an Account of the Operations and State of the Squadron to that which I presume you will receive from Admiral Graves by this Conveyance, He is preparing for, and intends proceeding to England in a few Days on board the Preston. I am,

Sir,

Vice Admiral Graves intending to proceed to England in a few days in the Preston gives me an opportunity of transmitting to you, some late Intelligence from Captains Parker and Vandeput, and Governor Tryon, of the State of Affairs at New York, by which I hope their Lordships will see the necessity of continuing the Asia some time longer at that place, and that they will please to dispense with my immediate Obedience to their Order for sending her home at this Critical Juncture when perhaps the appearance of that Ship, may be the means of bringing over many of the disaffected, to a sense of their Duty to His Majesty, and disuniting that Colony from those where the Inhabitants are in a more open and avowed state of Rebellion; and in this opinion General Howe, whom I have confer'd with and consulted on this Subject, is pleased to concur with me.

I transmit to you likewise, Sir, a Copy of the last Letter received from Captain Wallace of the Rose at Rhode Island, giving an Account of the State of, and the Situation he is in at that place and as Captain Wallace's services deserve every reward can be confer'd on him, I humbly recommend it to their Lordships Consideration sending him out a Larger and better Ship, especially as the Rose is Two years Foul, and that from his keeping the Inhabitants of that Province in so much Awe it would be improper to remove him from it.

[INTELLIGENCE FROM GOVERNOR TRYON]

Philadelphia Novemr. 16th. 1775.

The great news of the day with us is now to Destroy the Navy, a certain Mr. Bushnel has compleated his Machine, and has been missing four weeks, returned this day week.

It is conjectur'd that an attempt was made on the Asia, but proved unsuccessfull—Return'd to New Haven in order to get a Pump of a new Construction which will soon be completed,—When you may expect to see the Ships in Smoke. The Congress has now about Ten Sail of Vessels, five a Cruizing in the Mouth of the River Saint Lawrence, in order to take the Transport from England, and to speak with Carleton in his flight from Quebec, One, a certain Captain Whipple, has been Cruizing for the Packet, and most likely will take the Outward bound Packet, Whipple carries twelve Guns in a Sloop.

Asia, New York 18th. Decemr. 1775.

Sir,

I received your Letter by the Sloop George, and Mr. Lobb who arrived here on the 11th. Instant from Rhode Island, deliver'd to me your Orders of the 4th. all which I have communicated to Capt. Parker, as I have whatever Intelligence I have thought necessary for you to be informed of. I have sent to Boston (according to your Order) the Brigg Helena with Salt from St. Ubes which Captain Parker has directed the Commander of the Sloop George to take under his Convoy, the Owner of the Brigg, Mr. Bache, (for whose Character I beg to refer you to Major Moncreiffe or any of the Officers who have been at New York) informs me that Five Guns which are under the Salt, have been always in her as part of her Ballast, which he says he will take care to send proof of.—We have for a considerable time past had every Supply that we have demanded sent on board to Us, without any Molestation to the Boats which have brought it; nor do I expect there will be any unless some of the Rebel Troops from Connecticut, or New Jersey, should come into the Town, and prevent the Towns People from acting as they seem at present inclined.

Enclosed I send you a Form of Two Vessels I have Stopp'd, the Helena Brigg and the Sloop Charity, the latter who is very Deep, and deep Waisted is not fit to be sent round at this Season of the Year.—John Sharp and Thomas Smith two Volunteers whom I have Discharged into the Preston, are both Pilots for the Sound, John Sharp knows all the Coast from Boston, and is a Pilot for the Delaware, and is acquainted with James River. I am,

[INTELLIGENCE FROM GOVERNOR TRYON]

In Congress) Payment being provided The next thing to be considered is how to Convey the Vessels safe to America as there is no doubt but Brittish Cruizers will Seize all American Ships, if they fall in with them, neither will they spare Foreign Ships if they are met with on the American Coast, should Quebec Grace the American Laurels and by that means all Canada will fall into our hands, it might be well then to have a plentifull supply of Indian Goods brought out in a French Ship early next Spring to the Island of St. Peter or Miquelon from whence they are ready to run up the River St. Lawrence as soon as the Navigation opens, the goods to be Shipped by French Merchants as their own property and consigned by Bill of loading and invoice to a person appearing as their Factor but in reality ours—Another parcel of goods may be Shipped from France this Winter in French Bottoms to Cape St. Nichola in Hispaniola consigned to an Agent Stationed there, who can readily provide American Ships to run them to any part of the Continent that might be order'd, should it be judged expedient to send any Indian goods into the River Missisipy whither French or Americans might be employed to carry them, as the Navigation of that River remains free to both, and from New Orleans the goods might be brought in the River as far as Fort Pitt, in Batteaus.

Had not time to copy the whole but this is the particulars.—

Bernard Romans is appointed Engineer of the Fortress in the Highlands, he had 50 pounds a Year from the Crown as Botanist for one of the Florida's.

It is imagined that goods might be had from France nearly as cheap as we have been supplied from England, many Articles indeed are known to be much cheaper; if Orders were sent to France, or an Agent employed to go there to Ship a few thousands Pounds worth of Goods from thence in a number of Vessels, and could get Insurances made thereon in France the Merchants and Manufacturers would soon tast the Sweets of such an intercourse with us, and perhaps it would soon become a National Commerce. I apprehend there would be little difficulty therein, and imma-

gine that Vessels loaded from hence with our produce for foreign Markets by order of Congress might be Insured in France, as well as Vessels bound from thence to America, if so, and only half of them or one third should arrive safe, the Trade would be beneficial or at least answer very Valuable purposes.

Resolved that in case any difficulty shall arise or be apprehended in forming the new Army destined for the Defence of the Lines near Cambridge, General Washington be intituled to request the respective assemblies and conventions of the Four New England provinces to contribute their utmost aid to compel the Levies which shall be desired.—

NB. This from Governor Tryon who had it from undoubted Authority.

Rose, Rhode Island the 28th. Decemr. 1775—

Sir,

Since my last of the 10th. Inst. the Rebels Issued out Orders from Providence to break off all Communication with the King's Ships, not to supply them with any thing whatever, on pain of Death; Upon which I acquainted the Town, if they were a Town, we must be upon other Terms—A Committee came on board, desired a Truce, while they could send off a Number of Inhabitants to Providence, to represent their situation, and to obtain permission to supply us with every thing we wanted—this I granted—Twenty of them accordingly went off, and obtained leave to supply us; so that now we are upon the same Footing as before—But this I know can't last long. The Rebels suspect Newport is intended to be made a Post for the King, this has brought Lee here with more Troops, what his Intentions are I can't at present penetrate, unless to erect Batteries and provoke us to destroy the Town.—If Government has no Intentions upon the place, would it not be better to destroy it, and carry the War along the Coast; the Destruction of a Great Town, without particular Orders, is a serious matter; however something must be done for the King's Service, if they won't endeavour to save their own Towns, why should we—'tis better they should be destroyed than that they should be Enemies to us.

Lee enter'd the Town the 25th. Instt. with a Detachment, leaving his Main body (about 2000) without the Town:—Began, with sending for a Number of the Principal People, who were suspected to be Friends to Government—Tendered them the inclosed Affidavit; some that refused he took away Prisoners with him; this Visit 'tis said was in consequence of a Report, that a Number of Inhabitants were ready to join me, for the King's Service—however I suppose he was convinced to the contrary, and after Vapouring two or three days left us again. They still assure me that the Rebel Philadelphia Fleet is destined here, which will oblige me to detain the Transport some time longer as a Store and Hospital Ship. Upon the departure of Lee, they sent on board and offered us every thing we wanted; I accepted till the 8th. Janry—Indeed we can do but little at present, the Weather having been very severe—Seven or Eight of our Men have been Frost-bit—And no Instructions from you since the Swan arrived—Accounts from York mention Lord Dunmore's making a brave Stand, and collecting an Army of 5000 Men. Affidavit, Tendered by Lee to the inhabitants of Rhode Island.

I do now in the presence of Almighty God, as I hope for ease, honor and comfort in this World, and happiness in the life to come, most earnestly, devoutly and religiously swear neither directly or indirectly to assist the wicked instruments of Ministerial tyranny and villainy, commonly called the King's Army and Navy, by furnishing them with Provisions or refreshments of any kind, unless authorised by the continental Congress or the legislature as at present established of this particular Colony of Rhode Island.

I do also swear by the same tremendous and almighty God, that I will neither directly or indirectly convey any Intelligence, nor give any advice to the aforesaid enemies here described, and that I pledge myself that if I should by any accident get the knowledge of such treasons, to inform immediately the Committee of safety.

And as it is justly allowed that when the rights and sacred liberties of a nation or community are Invaded; neutrality is not less base and criminal than open and avowed hostility: I do further swear and pledge myself as I hope for eternal salvation, that I will, whenever called upon by the continental Congress, or by the Legislature of this particular Colony under their authority to take up arms and subject myself to Military discipline, in defence of the common rights and liberties of America.

So help me God.

Mr. Robert Grant of London having enter'd into an Agreement, the 7 July last, with the Principal Officers and Commissioners for Victualing His Majestys Navy, to supply the Squadron at this Place with Fresh Beef when to be had, on a Commission of 5, ℔r. Cent; I beg leave to inclose a Copy of the Agreement and to make some remarks thereon as Agent to Mr. Grant for executing this Business.

You will please to Observe that I am restricted from charging the Exchange I may be obliged to raise Money at to make purchases, And only to have the Exchange at the times my Accounts shall be respectively made up, and then to draw only in favour of Mr. Grant, which prevents my negociating or passing the Bills away here. From this Mode of transacting the Business and the Fluctuation of Exchange, it already has and may frequently happen, that Mr. Grant shall lose more than the Commission of 5, ℔r. Cent. To illustrate, Exchange has fallen lately from 17½ ℔r. Cent discount to 12½ and 10 ℔r. Cent, consequently all Money laid out and that I may have to draw for on closing my Account Mr. Grant will Suffer from 5 to 7½ ℔r. Cent loss on.

Cargoes of Cattle frequently arrive just after a Vessel has sailed for London and another may not offer for a Month or Six Weeks after, and 'tis well known that all Bills drawn just after a Ship is sailed, depreciates in Exchange generally about 2½ ℔r. Cent, which loss Mr. Grant must Sustain and be in Advance Six Weeks or two Months for the Amount of the Purchases and run the Risk of a further Loss on Exchange at the time my Account is made up and that I draw for the Amount. These are difficulties which I presume did not Occurr either to the Board of Commissioners or Mr. Grant. To obviate these Obstacles and to prevent disappointment in purchasing Supplies of Fresh Meat, which is not at all times even to be effected by Bills, I wou'd humbly beg Leave to offer the following Suggestions to your Consideration.

That I should have leave to draw on the Board of Commissioners, and to pay the Bills away as I make purchases, having the Accounts first approved by you and also the Bills, and even to pass Bills by Anticipation when the Exchange is favorable to enable my purchasing a Cargo or Cargoes as soon as they Arrive, which at present I cannot do without injuring Mr. Grant by Exchange or at least hazarding it, as well as putting him to a very considerable Advance, as I cannot draw on the Board 'till my Accounts are made up; And I likewise beg leave to Submit whether it may not be found expedient to have Money out early in the Spring for this purpose to prevent disappointment or injury to the Service.

latter for a private Station, by which the Sea Force remaining at this Port for the defence of the Yard are the Cerberus, and Savage Sloop, the former dismantled alongside the Wharfe, in order to repair the Damage she has sustained by running twice on different Rocks, which I shall use every possible means to Effect altho' the inclemency of the Season is such at present as makes it doubtful, which if it continues will lay me under the disagreeable necessity of replaceing her Ballast and Guns in order to make the best defence our feeble state will permit, if the Rebels should pay us a Visit.

I am sorry to say that the Garrison is not only very Weak, not more than 500. Many just recruited from the Newfoundland Fishery, but is very Sickly, nor have we a single Work erected, nor can be untill Spring, which I hope will not be too late, I am therefore under the necessity to say unless such Force is sent, by sending Two Deck Ships, to command the heights about the Yard, as well as the labour of the Crews to assist in Barracading the Yard, for no other have I, or shall have, either to make it defencible, or to defend it in case of an Attack; because the whole of the Troops as I understand are to be employ'd on the Heights, without, in which case I am sure I cannot let them into the Yard, if they are defeated, because I most certainly will prevent by every means the Gate from being forced.

Rose at Rhode Island 14th. Janry 1776.—

Sir,

The Rebels having for some time past kept from one to two Hundred Men upon the Islands, to prevent our Supplies—and by a Law, making it Death for any one to Supply us, have put us to a great inconvenience, being much in want of Hay,—On Friday Morning the 12th. Instant I stood up the Bay, with His Majesty's Ships Glasgow, Swan, and Tenders, in order to procure some.—At about 12 at Noon, being a breast of Prudence, we saw a Body of Armed Men, with a Field Piece, who followed us as we Sailed along. At the South end of the Island, I saw a Quantity of Hay, and determined to Land and Seize it, this they perceived, and set fire to the Stacks, and retired to their Stone Fences to oppose us, (every Field has stone Inclosures) — We landed beat them from fence to fence, for four Miles into their Country, firing and wasting the Country as we advanced along; We burnt Twelve or Fifteen Farm Houses, took a great deal of Stock, when, Night coming on, we gave over the pursuit, and retired back to our Ships, bringing with us the Stock. When we got back to our Boats, the People was fatigued and Cold, and fearing they might be Frost Bit, Ordered them to Embark and leave the Cattle behind 'till next Morning—Next Morning we landed again to bring the Cattle off, but, during the Night, reinforcements of five or six hundred Men had been sent on, and drove the Cattle to the other extremity of the Island, and large Bodies of armed Rebels stood behind stone Fences to oppose us,—In this situation we contented ourselves with taking off some Haystacks in their sight, and Embarked our Men again. In the attack the first day, we killed two of their Men, and took two Prisoners, both of them Wounded,—with only three of our Men slightly Wounded. The next day, some of the Swans and Glasgow's Men, straying too far from the Main Body, fell into an Ambush, and one Man of the Swan's was killed, two Mortally Wounded, and one Slightly—One Man of the Glasgow's was Shot through the Thigh, and fell into the hands of the Rebels, and one slightly wounded. Our loss would have been less, had our People have had less Spirit.—The Country is kept in Alarm all round. I am,

[GOVERNOR WENTWORTH TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

(Copy) Boston, 24th. February 1776.—

Sir,

I beg leave to inclose herewith a Copy of the Letter, which I did myself the honor of mentioning to you lately to have written to Admiral Graves relative to the State of New Hampshire;—By several Accounts from that Province I learn that the People are making many Preparations and daily erecting Works of Strength on the different Islands at the Mouth of Piscataqua River, where a Body of Troops is kept up to obstruct and prevent Access for the King's Ships that Way, the only navagable Inlet, into the Province; That they had entirely subverted His Majesty's Authority and proceeded to establish and administer a new mode of Government of their own Formation, enforcing Obedience to their Measures by Violence and Outrage on the Persons and Properties of Individuals, who, if not acquiescing in Rebellion, are unavoidably exposed to destructive Resentments, being wholly destitute of any Protection or Defence, of which Circumstance the Rebels have also availed themselves in fitting out Armed Vessels from Portsmouth to commit Depredations on the Transports bound for Boston.

Permit me, Sir, to assure you of my utmost Attention and Readiness toward restoring the King's Authority in that Government, and Zeal to apply every Effort and Means in my Power to give Facility to any Operations undertaken for that Purpose.

I have the Honor to be with great respect and Esteem,

Enclosure B

[GOVERNOR WENTWORTH TO VICE ADMIRAL GRAVES]

Copy of a Letter from Governor Wentworth to Admiral Graves.

Boston 24th. November 1775.

Sir,

By late Advices which I have received from the Earl of Dartmouth, his Lordship informs Me that Measures were pursuing for augmenting the Fleet in North America, and that you would be instructed to exert the most vigorous Efforts for suppressing the Rebellion now openly avowed and supported in this Country that the Commanders of His Majesty's Ships should be directed to receive on Board, and give Protection to any Officers of the Crown, who may be compelled by the Violence of the people to seek for such an Assylum, and to proceed as in the Case of a Town in actual Rebellion against such of the Sea Port Towns, being accessible to His Majesty's Ships, as should offer any Violence to the King's Officers or in which any Troops should be raised or Military Works erected, other than by His Majesty's Authority, or any attempts made to Seize or plunder any public Magazines of Arms and Ammunition. After the many communications which I have already had the honor to make to you relative to the Proceedings and transactions of the People in the Province of New Hampshire which obliged Me to take refuge here, further repetitions must at this time be needless to shew how deeply they are in general unhappily engaged in this unnatural Rebellion;—The great advantages which the natural situation of Piscataqua Harbor gives to the Rebels having already encouraged them, as I am well informed, to carry their Frenzy to so great a height as to erect several Batteries on different Eminences commanding the River to annoy the King's Ships, it is very manifest, considering the Spirit prevailing in the Country, that a strong Force will be necessary to reduce and hold possession of the Harbor;—Such a Measure however, if effected, would, it is hoped, very much check their presumption, answer other good purposes conformable to His Majesty's intentions, and probably enable Me to maintain a Residence in the Province to Execute His Majesty's Commands as far as in my Power.

Whenever it shall be your pleasure to adopt any plan of proceeding with regard to that Province, as it is My duty so shall it be my most hearty desire to exert every endeavour and Employ every means in my Power to aid and Support all such Operations as you may think proper to undertake for executing His Majesty's Orders and restoring the Authority of His Government, and be very happy to embark the first Opportunity of going to the Province whenever you think it expedient to send a sufficient Force there to Command Possession of Piscataqua River. I have the honor to be with great respect and Esteem.

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO GOVERNOR WENTWORTH]

Copy Boston 25th. February 1776.

Sir,

I have the honor of your Excellency's Letter of Yesterday's Date, relative to the State of the Province of New Hampshire under your Government, together with a Copy of a Letter you had lately wrote to Vice Admiral Graves on that Subject; in the former of which you are pleased to "Assure me of your utmost "Attention and readiness towards restoring the King's "Authority in that Province, as well as your Zeal to "apply every effort and means in your power to give "Facility to any Operations for that purpose"; In Answer to which I am sorry to Acquaint you of my present inability to Co-operate with you in so usefull and necessary an undertaking, from the very small Force and bad Condition of the Ships now under my Command, which are hardly Sufficient to Guard this Port, and prevent the Supplies coming to it falling into the hands of the Rebels, whose Privateers are numerous and dayly increasing, I must therefore be Obliged to defer undertaking an Expedition against Piscataqua, where you say a strong Force will be necessary to reduce and hold possession of the Harbour, at least 'til the Arrival of a Reinforcement from Europe, which if consistent with the other Services I am Ordered to Execute, I shall very willingly employ for the important Purposes you mention, namely, the Reduction of the Rebels to a Sense of their Duty, the Restoration of the King's Authority in the Province of New Hampshire, and the Re-establishment of your Excellency in that Seat of Government, which you have so long filled with Honor to yourself, and so much to the Satisfaction of His Majesty and His Ministers. I have the honor to be,

Your Excellency's
most Obedient and very Humble Servant

[PHILLIPS CALLBECK TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

(Copy) Halifax 10th. January 1776.—

Sir,

I beg Leave to acquaint you, that on the Seventeenth November last, two Privateers belonging to Beverly, one of them Armed with Six Six Pounders, the other four Six Pounders, and each of them with a number of Swivels, and Seventy five Men, Arrived at Charlotte Town, the Capital of His Majesty's Island of St. John (where I reside as Commander in Chief, the Governor being absent on Leave:) and immediately made Preparations to fire on the Town, at the same time their Commanders with armed Partys landed.—Not having heard that the Colonys had fitted out Privateers, I judged them to be Pirates, and by their Conduct they were Actually such. Therefore in order to preserve the Town from being burnt, I determined Singly to face them, not having force of any kind to make resistance. Upon their landing they made me Prisoner, and instantly conveyed me on board one of the Privateers; after which they proceeded to to commit the most wanton and flagrant Outrages on Governor Paterson's and my House, possessed themselves of the whole of my Property, after which made a Prisoner of a Mr. Wright one of the Council, and then Sailed for New England. We landed at Winter Harbour, and proceeded to Cambridge, where, upon relating our distresses to Mr. Washington, our being torn from our Families in the most cruel manner, and I being robbed of all I had, he thought proper to release us, and I am thus far in my way back to re-assume the Government. The reason, they assigned for their Conduct, was, that I had recruited for the King's Army, and sent the People, I got, to the assistance of Quebec.

Prior to their attacking the Island they had remained in the Gut of Canso sometime, during which they took five Vessels laden with Fish, and in their return they took three more, without meeting with the least opposition.

I have taken the Liberty, Sir, to trouble you with this detail, in order to excuse my observing that if there had been last Summer, a Frigate, cruizing as usual in the Gulph of St. Lawrence, our Persons and Property, and the unfortunate Owners of the Vessels before mentioned, would have been secured against the hostile Depredations, we have had the misfortune to experience; at the same time to make my most earnest request, that you will be pleased to order a Frigate to be as early as possible in the Spring at the Island, and to remain there as long as the Season will permit; Otherwise the Gentlemen belonging to His Majesty's Government and Myself will be under the disagreeable necessity of departing from our duty, and abandoning our Fortunes, most of which have been expended on the Island in Improvements. To take this Step, Sir, will naturally occur to you to be very disagreeable to us; Yet our Preservation so much depends upon being secured in the manner I have made free to point out, that unless you are pleased to give me hopes that our Request for Protection will be granted, we certainly shall, as I have said before, be obliged early in the Spring, to take the sad alternative of seeking an Assylum else where.

I am to observe, Sir, that if you should be pleased to grant my request, it will not only be a means of making us happy in being secured, but it will also prevent the Rebels from making an Acquisition of Sixteen Nine Pounders, one eight Inch Mortar, some Cannon ball, and Grape Shot, which are now at Fort-Amherst, at the entrance of Port la Joye—If there were no other Temptations for making a second Visit, the Object of gaining this Artillery, would to them be a sufficient Inducement, not to Add the Gratification of their avowed revengefull Disposition (on those who in a manner assist the Crown:) by ruining several Gentlemen's Settlements, their Tenantry and others on the Island. These Gentlemen were Inhabitants, but stimulated by Loyalty to His Majesty, immediately enter'd his Service, and have taken off Recruits, all of whom are now on Duty in different parts of America.

There was a Circumstance took place while I was Prisoner, which I think my Duty to communicate to you. A Transport from London called the Jenny, Captain William Foster, was taken by a Privateer, who decoyed her by an Imitation of one of the King's Armed Schooners. The Master after he found his mistake, threw over board his Pocket book in which he had the Signals. This he did five Leagues from the Coast. In two days afterwards, I saw the Pocket book, which was found a Shore. Of Course the Rebels are in Possession of the Signals.

I am sensible, Sir, that your Vigilance in your important Station, inclines you to procure every necessary Information, and that you will not think I too far encroach on your time (while (as a faithfull servant of the Crown) I endeavor as briefly as possible, to communicate to you a few Observations I made, while I was in New-England: The trade they carried on, surprised me exceedingly. At most of the Ports east of Boston, while I passed, and re-passed, there were daily Arrivals from the West-Indies, but most from Saint Eustatia; every one brings more or less Gun-Powder. Some Vessels had Sailed, Numbers were fitting out, loaded with Fish, Lumber, and some with Specie, all I believe bound for the West Indies, and Saint Eustatia. At Portsmouth there were four ready to Sail. at Sachs two Brigs. I suppose they will be on their return in March, and most of them will bring Gun-Powder. At Cape Ann, Marble head and Beverly, they have Forts, and now some Powder; the second is a stong one. Salem and Newberry have Vessels sunk, so, as to confine the Channel to a narrow Pass. Portsmouth has the same, besides a boom and three strong Forts. From Portsmouth to Casco every harbour and Creek has some insignificant

Redoubt, Logwall, or other defence, and upon the least alarm, the Country People come in, but from their appearance and Preparation, I should imagine their stand would be of short duration.

I have nothing further to add, but my Request that you will be pleased to favour me with an Answer directed to this place, where I shall wait for it, and that I have the honor to be with great respect,

Sir, &ca.

Boston 6th. February 1776

Sir,

I am favor'd with your Letter from Halifax of the 10th. January and take the earliest Opportunity to commiserate your Sufferings and to Assure you and all the Inhabitants of the Island of St. John's of my Attention and hearty Inclination to afford them every Protection the Naval force I have the honor to Command will allow.

To promise an immediate complyance with your Request of having a Frigate at your Port early in the Spring is what I am afraid I shall not be able to perform as it must wholly depend upon the Arrival of the remainder of the Force ordered to join me, a circumstance which the uncertainty of a Winter's Voyage to this boisterous Climate makes extremely precarious. It is therefore not in my power to do more than repeat my Assurances of granting you all the Protection the Naval Force under my Command and the exigency of Affairs will allow, as I am at this time applyed to for the Protection of four or five Frigates for various and Necessary Services upon this Continent, which I am not Able to comply with.

I am sorry to find from your Account, which Corresponds with many others I dayly receive that the Rebels enjoy so flourishing a trade along the Eastern Coast, and indeed they have been too successul upon every part of it, as well as with their Privateers. But I persuade myself a numerous Fleet with the Intelligence and Cooperation I may expect from the friends of Government, will enable me to form such a Plan for the ensueing Operations as will put a speedy Stop to their progress.

I wish you a safe return to Charlotte Town, and the re-establishment of your tranquility which I shall endeavour to promote by all Means in my power.

I am,
Sir

Chatham Boston 26th. February 1776.

Sir

I acquainted you in my last that on the 27th. of January, a few days previous to the departure of Admiral Graves, who Sailed the 2d. instant, I took upon me the Command of His Majesty's Squadron in North America, and finding upon enquiry a great Scarcity of Naval, as well as Ordnance Stores at this place, belonging to the King, and few or none of either to be purchased but at the most extravagant Prices, I thought it the first part of my Duty to dispatch a Transport under Convoy of an Armed Vessel to Halifax, to bring a Supply of both kinds of those Stores, on which Service they Sailed from hence the 11th. Instant.

On the 13th. Instant an Advice Boat belonging to General Howe Arrived here from that Port, and brought me a Letter from Captain Hudson of His Majesty's Ship Orpheus with the satisfactory Account of his Arrival there, tho' in a very shattered Condition, to-/gether with one from Capt. Bromedge of the Savage /Sloop (Copies of both which accompany this) and the latter informing me of the Seizure of Two Vessels laden with Naval Stores, which tho' perhaps legally cleared out in England, were certainly designed to Supply the Rebellious Inhabitants of the American Colonies, as the Owners and Claimants of both of them are reported here to be notorious and principal inflamers of the present unhappy Rebellion, as a confirmation of /which I transmit to you Sir, herewith, a Copy of a Letter to me from General Howe on that Subject, and shall be glad to receive through You His Majesty's or their Lordships pleasure, with regard to these two Vessels, as well as to Thirty Six More, Seized and detained by Vice Admiral Graves's Orders and now lying in this Harbour under similar Circumstances, Application having been made to me lately, by the Agents, for my direction /relating to them, Copy of whose Letter I send you herewith.

In a former Letter I took the liberty of recommending to their Lordships through You, that all Supplies to this Country might be sent in Armed Vessels, I mean such as our old Forty Gun Ships with only their upper Tier of Guns, for however Numerous our Cruizers may be, or however attentive our Officers to their Duty, it has been found impossible to prevent some of our Ordnance and other valuable Stores in small Vessels falling into the hands of the Rebels; and here I must take occasion to say that in the Course of my Service I never found Officers perform their Duty with so much perseverance and Vigilance as Ours, on this important Service, indeed, the firmness with which they have resisted the rigour of this long and Severe Winter, in constantly keeping the Sea on their respective Stations, is uprecedented and incredible; at the same time I must beg leave to observe to you the very few Ships I am provided with to enable Me to Co-operate with the Army, Cruize off the Ports of the Rebels to prevent their receiving Supplies, or protect those destined to this place from falling into their hands, and as it must be the first and principal object of my Consideration I have not been able yet to comply with their Lordship's Order of the 10th. October for sending a Vessel to Bermuda for the safety and defence of the Ordnance Stores belonging to His Majesty at that Island, but intend sending the Nautilus Sloop on that Service immediately on her Arrival from her Cruize.

I am,

Sir,

Your most Obedient Servant

(Copy) Orpheus, Halifax 31st. Janry 1776.

Sir,

With what reluctancy do I inform you that on the 21st. of November when I lost sight of the Chatham, I was on that day rendered to a state disagreeable indeed, by the total loss of all our principal Sails then bent, which was occasioned in some Measure by the Violence of the Wind, but more so by the badness of the Cordage and Iron Work that the Ship was equipt with, and to add to my Misfortunes, I lost on the 30th. of that Month our Fore and Main Masts, with all the remainder of the Essential Sails in the Ship, a fore, and foretopsail excepted.

In this Condition I continued till I got Jury Masts erected, with a determined resolution to gain the Coast of America, which I persevered in and happily attained on the 29th. Instant, and yesterday got into this port, where I shall exert every endeavor in my power to get the Ship re-established with her proper Materials in order to join you, in this I am convinced, that I shall be much assisted by Commodore Arbuthnot, who in truth gives assured proofs of his abilitys and expedition in forwarding the Service.

I am happy to hear of your safe arrival at Boston, which place I shall repair to as soon as in my power.— Inclosed I send the State and Condition of the Orpheus, and believe me assuredly to be &ca.

Savage Sloop, Halifax 27th. Janūry 1776—

Sir,

I Embrace this opportunity of transmitting to You, Copies of my last Orders from Vice Admiral Graves, by Captain Le Cras, and pursuant to those Orders, the 16th. Instant I boarded the Ship Nicholas of Boston, burthen 120 Tons, (by her Register) John White Master (:but pretends to be no other than Super Cargo:)

from Petersburgh and Cowes, laden with Naval Stores, Iron, Hemp, Sail Duck, and light Canvas, all which was cleared out at Cowes for Halifax, as at Cowes I am informed, the Master could not Clear out for Salem, or Boston, where the Ships and Owners belong to, the 19th. I boarded the Ship Boston Packet of Boston, burthen 140 Tons, James Shepherd Master, from Petersbourgh and Cowes, laden with the same kind of Cargo as the Ship Nicholas, but different Owners, as you will observe by the report herewith transmitted; I beg leave, Sir, to observe to you, that there are no Rope Walks, nor any Consumption for those Two Cargoes in this place, nor in the Province, but a very easy, and even daily conveyance by small Coasting Vessels, from this place to New Liverpool and Cape Sable, from which places it is but a short way across the Bay of Fundy to the Continent of Massachusetts Bay &ca. &ca. and those Two Cargoes are Consigned to the Masters: Those two Ships sailed from Salem in December 1774 for Charles Town South Carolina, there loaded Rice for Cowes, and from thence proceeded for the Baltic; the Crews of both Ships Entered for my Ship, and I am informed by the Crew of the Boston Packet, that the Master Declared repeatedly on the Passage, that, could he make Cape Codd, he would go in there and land his Cargo, or could he make Cape Ann, he did not fear meeting with some of his Friends, to carry him into Beverly or Salem, but the Wind hanging to the Southward, he with difficulty made this Harbour: I am firmly of Opinion, that if I have the delivering and Searching those Two Ships, I shall find more than is in their Clearance from Cowes; I shall be extremely happy to know your pleasure respecting those Vessels likewise Vessels from the French West India Islands with Melasses, and with Salt from Spain and Portugal &ca. as this place is now made the Magazine and Repository which is easily transported to the Continent.

(Copy) Boston 16th. February 1776.

Sir,

I am favor'd with Copies of Captain Bromedge's Letter, and an Account of the Cargoes on board the Ships Nicholas and Boston Packet, the Properties of Thomas Boilston and William Denny of this Town.

Admitting it should appear that the Laws of Trade have not been infringed, yet the Probability of these Stores being smiggled away to the Enemy if not prevented, makes me think it highly proper that they should be detained: I am more particularly led to this, William Denny having been guilty of notorious Treason, and Thomas Boilston's Principles of Loyalty much to be doubted.

Your superior Judgment in Affairs of this nature, coming more particularly under your own Department, does not require this Intrusion of my private Opinion, which I flatter myself you will excuse, as proceeding from that Regard and Esteem wherewith I have the Honor to be most sincerely, Sir, &ca.

Sir,

Having already had the Honor of acquainting you of our Appointment, by Samuel Graves Esqr. Vice Admiral of the White, to be Agents or Factors for selling such Vessels and Cargoes, as have been brought into this Harbour by His Majesty's Ships of War, and are either deemed Rebel Property, or wanted for the use of the Garrison, and having laid our whole Proceedings before you, which we flatter ourselves have met your Approbation; we now beg leave to furnish and inclose you the State and Condition of the Vessels and Cargoes in our Charge, and to request that you would be pleased to have Reference to Admiral Graves's Order to us on that Head, which empowers us not only to take charge of the Vessels mentioned in it, but likewise of such others as we may find in the Harbour, not owned by People residing in this Town, agreeable to which we have added, all that have come to our knowledge in the List now presented.

And as he empowers and orders us discretionally to sell Vessels or Cargoes that are liable either to Perish or to be embezzled, and as we humbly conceive the Inclemency of the Weather has opened the Seams of the sides and Decks, that most or all the Cargoes, are subject to Perish, and as most of the Vessels have been Stript of their Sails, Cables, Anchors and small Stores, and in general have not Sufficient Ground Tackle to Moor them, this added to our Inabillity to procure a sufficient number of Men to take care of them, we therefore think it incumbent upon us to acquaint you therewith, and to pray your Directions for our future Conduct respecting them; and to offer it to your Opinion, whether it would not be better, under their present Circumstances, that the Cargoes that are in Danger of suffering be sold, for the Benefit of Government or who ever may be proved to be the Proprietors. Chatham Boston 27th. February 1776.—

Sir,

A few days ago I applied to General Howe, signifying my Opinion that the great Supplies of Provisions and Refreshments sent out by Government to this Country were intended for the use of His Majesty's Fleet and Army agreeable to your Letter to Vice Admiral Graves of the 26th. of September last on that subject, and herewith I think it my Duty to transmit to You, the Friendly ///but Official Letters which passed between the General and Me relating to those Supplies, that Their Lordships may be undeceived in any supposition they may entertain of His Majesty's Fleet having received any greater Share of His Royal Bounty in that great and Extensive Donation, than the Quantity of about Fifty Butts of Porter. Enclosure D

[GENERAL HOWE TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

(Copy) Boston 25th. February 1776

Sir,

I have the Honor to Acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of Yesterday's Date, enclosing the Copy of a Letter from Mr. Stephens, Secretary to the Admiralty to Vice Admiral Graves, with a List of Ships taken up to carry out Stores, Provisions, and live Stock to North America, for the use of His Majesty's Fleet and Forces in those parts.

Be assured, Sir, I have the strongest Disposition that the Fleet under your Command should share with the Army in every thing contributing to supply their Mutual or real Wants And that I should not wait for the Authority of Orders to direct Me in this respect where the smallest Necessity Appeared. But permit me to Observe, that from the first Intimation of His Majesty's gracious Intentions to send out Store Ships with Refreshments and other Supplies, all the Advices relative thereto from the Secretary of State, and from the Treasury uniformly Agreed, that they were designed "for the Use and Comfort of the Army", known to be Suffering from a Want of a Change of Diet, and of proper Food for the Number of Sick and Wounded, with which the Hospitals were Crowded after the Action on the 17th. June, and without any Prospect of Relief from this Quarter. In order to give you the fullest Satisfaction on this Head, I send enclosed Extracts of several Letters received from the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury before and after the Date of Mr. Stephens's Letter to Vice Admiral Graves, Marked No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, Also One No. 9 from Lord Dartmouth's Dispatch of 22d. September enclosing his Letter to the Lords of the Admiralty whereupon Mr. Stephens has founded his Suggestion in regard to the Stores &ca. Shipped for this Place, which may serve to put His Majesty's Pleasure in a clearer Point of View.

But upon the receipt of a Letter from Vice Admiral Graves dated the 12th. January, enclosing a Copy of a Letter delivered to him by you (the same with the One now received) I ordered without Hesitation a Proportion of Porter to be delivered to the Fleet. The Cargoes that Arrived before were so reduced in the Voyage, and in so perishing a Condition, that they were mostly distributed among the Hospitals and Regiments as they came in, and were essentially Necessary for the Health of the Troops, who had been for some time without the small Species of Provisions usually issued.

You will also be pleased to Observe that many of the Stores sent out were in consequence of an Inventory made by Colonel Robinson, Deputy Barrack master General, which, by pointing out the particular Wants of the Army, gave rise to the Idea of their being Supplied in this Manner; and that many things were Accordingly Ordered only applicable to the use of the Soldiery, Vizt. Blankets, Ruggs, Duffil, Oznaburgs, Watch Coats, Shoes, Hose, Thread &ca. &ca. not in Quantity Sufficient to bear a Division, but to be disposed of as I should see proper "for the use and Com-"fort of the Army".

I flatter myself that you will do me the Justice to believe that there is not any thing hereby designed as an Objection to Requisitions you may make on the part of the Fleet, but as it is meant, solely to explain the real matter of Right by Submitting the enclosed Papers to your Perusal. To evince the contrary, I shall be happy as far as it is in my power to relieve the immediate Wants of the Fleet under your Command, to which, I shall always be led no less by Inclination, than from a Sense of indispensible Duty.

I have the Honor to be

Whitehall Treasury Chambers 9th Septr. 1775

Sir

"As it is apprehended General Gage may have left Boston on a Leave of Absence to return to England before this can Arrive in America: I am directed by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury to acquaint you, it having been represented to them that Colonel James Robertson Barrack master General had applied to Messieurs John and George Erving Merchants at Boston, for the importing into Boston sundry Articles in the Schedule herein enclosed marked Letter A, for the Service and use of the Army, And that Messieurs Ervings had directed their Correspondents here to execute such Commission which they had endeavored to do but could not: Their Lordships, altho' no Information thereon had been sent to them, thought it right to direct due enquiry to be made into this Business; and upon such Enquiry their Lordships have judged it expedient to order such Stores to be provided: I am therefore directed to Acquaint you, that several of the stores Mentioned in the Schedule A, are now Shipped According to an Invoice marked Letter B, on board the Ship Friendship James Holmes Master, under Sailing Orders to go to Spithead, and from thence to come under Convoy of One of His Majesty's Ships of War, consigned to the Order of the Officer Commanding His

[1] Secretary of the Treasury.

Majesty's Forces at Boston or elsewhere, as he shall direct her to proceed, And as will appear by the Charter Party, a Copy of which shall be sent by the Ship— You will observe by my former dispatches to General Gage of the 30th. June and 26th. July last, and by the Remarks on the Schedule A, that the Articles of Coals and Oats had been before provided by the Board.

"Their Lordships having since taken into Consideration what may be further wanted for the Army, have Ordered Thirty Watch-Coats to be sent out for the use of each Battalion, and for Twenty Battalions, which will come by the same Ship, And have also Ordered the different Articles in the Paper Marked Letter C, to be provided with all possible Expedition. This last Order is not so forward as to enable Me to inform you more particularly than I have endeavored to do by the Remarks in the Paper C, but I hope soon to do it."

Flock Beds . . . . Ordered by the War Office

Coals . . . . 3000 Chaldrons . . 3000 Chaldrons were before Ordered and now 3000 are Added which is a greater Quantity than is mentioned as necessary in both Col: Robertson's Orders.

Porter . . 375,000 Gallons . . This Quantity is on a Calculation of allowing to each Man a Pot of Porter ℔r. day, and for 10,000 Men for 150 Days, and is sent to be used at the Discretion of the Commander in Chief.

Sheep . . 2000 . . . . After the Minutest inquiry in respect to sending out black Cattle that we found to be impracticable, but it is hoped that Sheep may be sent with tolerable degree of Safety and without much Loss, what will be the exact Number that can be sent out can't yet be Ascertained 'till the Shipping is fixed, but this Number is proposed to be sent, And it is hoped it may be Accomplished and will be of considerable Service.

Potatoes . . . A Cargo besides what has been Ordered on Col. Robertson's Plan.

Carrots } . . . . A few of each for Hospital use and Onions } particular Cases, many can't be sent.

Sour Crout . . . A good Quantity will be sent as soon as the proper Season comes for making it, the Cabbages are not yet quite in their perfection for this purpose.

Sallad Seed . . . A good Quantity of this small Sallading Seed will be sent out, as it will grow on being Sown any where Almost on a little Earth and with Moisture and Warmth and may be raised by the Soldiers on a little space by each Mess in Sufficient Quantities for their refreshment and Use.

Malt . . . . Some will be sent out for the Hospital use and for Scorbutic Cases to be used as may be Judged proper.

100,000 Gallons of Jamaica Rum . . Information having been given that the Rum which the Troops get is bad and New and Unwholesome it is proposed that some of the Ships which must be Chartered for carrying these Stores out to Boston shall be sent from thence to Jamaica for Rum of a good Quality, and that they shall bring back to Boston at least this Quantity of Rum—By this means the Troops will have a supply of good Rum and it is proposed that it shall be at the disposal of the Commander in Chief, to be distributed by him on particular Services, and in such Manner as he shall think proper.

Vinegar—100 Hogsheads. It has been represented that no Vinegar almost can be had, a Considerable Quantity has been sent out for the Hospital use, and it has been thought that a Quantity being sent to be served out as the Commander in Chief shall see fit may be of use and therefore this Quantity will be sent out with the other things.

Sir,

I have the honor of your Letter of Yesterday's date, accompanying Extracts of several Letters from the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury relating to the intention and distribution of the Supplies and Refreshments which His Majesty was Graciously Pleased to Order to be sent out to this Country; in consequence of which information and the probability that those Supplies were only designed for the "Use and Comfort of the Army," notwithstanding the Suggestion in Mr. Stephens's Letter, that the Fleet was to receive an equal Share of that Bounty, I shall give directions that you shall not be troubled with any further Application on that Subject, fully convinced and sensible of the humanity and impartiality of your disposition that nothing will ever be wanting in your power to supply the wants and Necessitys of His Majesty's Subjects of either Service, as they shall become known to you. Sir

It was with great satisfaction I received & read to my Lords Commissioners of the Admty your Letter of the 15th. of last Month acquainting their Lordships of your Arrival at Boston, the Account thereof having been expected with great impatience, I have also received your Journal of the Occurrences upon the Voyage.

The only observation I have to make in return to your said Letter is on that Part of it respecting the Care to be used as to the Vessels which may in future be employed to carry out Stores or Supplies, And on this their Lorships are pleased to direct me to inform you that every Precaution will be taken for their Security the Nature of the business may admit of. 29th. Febry. 1776

Sir

Having received & communicated to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty your Letters of the 19th. 27th. and 28th. of last Month, I do by their Lordships direction sit down to make the necessary replies thereto.

The Intelligence transmitted in the letter of the 19th. has been also received from Vice Adml. Graves.

Their Lordships have satisfaction in your recommendation of Captain Wallace, and will as you propose remove him into a larger & better Ship than the Rose, the first Opportunity there is for so doing.

The Letter you have transmitted from Mr. Brymer, Agent to Mr. Grant, who contracts for supplying fresh Meat to His Majesty's Ships at Boston in regard to drawing his Bills for the same, is referred to the Commissioners of the Victualling for their immediate Consideration and Opinion what can be done towards removing his difficulties, their Lordships being equally desirous with you that every facility may be given that can with Propriety, to the supply of an Article so essential to the well carrying on the publick Service.

It is not in their Lordships power at present to comply with the Proposal 'contained in Commissioner Arbuthnots letter of sending two Deck'd Ships for the Protection of the Yard at Halifax; and they Hope from the several other Measures now taking not only for the security of the Province of Nova Scotia but all His Majesty's Colonies in North America, the same will not be found necessary, Their Lordships approve of your appointment of another Officer to the Command of the Garpee Armed Brig, if on your farther Information concerning her, she is not in possession of the Rebels.

Their Lordships have made the Master General of the Ordnance acquainted with the Want of Ordnance small stores at Halifax; and with your proposition of having a Supply sent in a Storeship to Boston, or wherever the Commander in Chief may be, it being inconvenient to send to Halifax when supplies are wanted, and have recommended the same to be complied with.

Lieut. Mouat having informed my Lords that there is a Ship at Boston of Tonage and dimensions very fit to be established as a Sloop, and their Lordships intending that she shall be purchased for His Majestys Service I have it in Command from them to acquaint you therewith and that you may expect their Order for so doing, also for establishing the said Vessel as a Sloop and appointing Mr. Mouat to the Command of her, who will return in the Canceaux so soon as she can be got ready which they expect will be in the Course of a few days and there will be sent in her a set of Guns proper to be supplied for the said Sloops use. [VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham Boston 8th. March 1776—

Sir.

Herewith I transmit to you Copies of Two Letters I //received since my last of the 26th. past from Captain A. Parker at New York, and Captain Wallace at Rhode B Island, with their Intelligence and information of the State of those Colonies; And [I am now to inform you, Sir, that on the Morning of the 4th. instant we observed that the Rebels had the preceding night taken post on the heights of Dorchester, and had thrown up so extensive and strong a Redoubt that it was supposed not less than Ten or Twelve thousand Men could have been employed in perfecting it in so short a time; This was so alarming and I presume unexpected an Event from the Advantageous situation of this Post, commanding the Town and Harbour of Boston, that General Howe Ordered an Attack to be made upon it that night, and Two thousand Troops were Embarked and in readiness for that Service, but the Wind blowing too fresh for the Boats to Row ahead the Expedition was laid aside, and the next day the 5th. Orders were issued for the Army to prepare to embark with all the dispatch possible, which the very distress'd Condition it is in for want of Provision makes absolutely necessary, for 'till I gave Orders a few days ago for a Months Supply out of the Naval Stores, it had not then more than a sufficiency for ☞Fourteen days, and except a Supply arrives very speedily for both services, the Consequence must be fatal. We are now using our utmost efforts and attention in Embarking the Ordnance and other Stores, and preparing for Evacuating this Town and Harbour to proceed to Halifax, the nearest and most likely place of refuge for an Army under such necessitous and Singular Circumstances, where I shall Convoy it with part of His Majesty's Squadron under my Command, leaving all the Force I can spare for the protection of the Supplies intended for this place.

On the representation of General Howe of the small importance the Ships under Captain Wallace's Command are now at Rhode Island, and the very few I have to protect our Supplies from falling into the hands of the Rebels, especially on our leaving Boston, I have Ordered Captain Wallace to send two of them (the Swan and Bolton Armed Brig) to Cruize in the track of any Vessels bound here, and to see them in safety in their way to Halifax, The Glasgow, I have Ordered to New York and from thence to the Southward with General Howe's and my Dispatches, and the Rose I have Ordered to Halifax to clean and refit.

/c I likewise herewith transmit to You Copy of a Letter from Captain Talbot of the Niger, informing me of the loss of the Friendship Transport which General Howe had sent with his dispatches to New York, and on board which, on the Generals Application to me, I had Ordered a Petty Officer and Ten Men from the Chatham, and the same number from the Centurion, to assist the Master in the Navigation and defence of her upon that Service, all which I am sorry to acquaint you are become Prisoners to the Rebels to whom they were obliged to fly and submit to save their Lives when the Vessel was Wreck'd

Captain Parker having acquainted me of the Death of Mr. George Clepham Purser of the Asia on the 24th. January last, I have Appointed Mr. Edward Bragge my Secretary to Succeed him in that Employment, which I hope their Lordships will be pleased to confirm him in.

Enclosure A

[CAPTAIN PARKER TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

Copy
Sir,

On the fifth of this Month Mr. Lee the Rebel General came into this City, with a large Body of Men said to Amount to Three Thousand, on the Eleventh they removed all the Guns upon the lower Batteries up to what is called the Liberty Pole near the Barracks, this it was impossible for His Majesty's Ships to prevent, the Battery being so Situated, that I Should have been Obliged to place one Ship in the North River, which at that time was Absolutely impossible; from there being a Strong Wind at W.NWt. and a Flood Tide, which effectually prevented our moving out of the East River; besides very large fields of floating Ice that would have Subjected the Ships to the most extreme danger of being carried Adrift. Firing upon the Town and judged by the Governor, General Clinton and myself, too Severe a Measure, being Confident that the Majority of the Citizens, particularly those of Property are faithful to the King; neither was this Act of Violence, an Act of the City's, but of the Rebels who have invaded it, as appears by the Minute of the Committee for removing the Records. I must Sir, beg leave to remark, that I feel myself in a very difficult Situation to know how to Act, Convinced as I am of the Attachment to His Majesty of many Men of great Property in this Town, at the same time knowing that it is Garrisoned by Rebels, And they have even had the Audacity to place Centinels immediately before Me, which I could never Submit to, was I not persuaded that my firing upon them would involve the City in ruins, which I must confess I cautiously Avoid, being determined if possible to make the Act of committing Hostilities theirs and not Mine, I should hope I am doing right, and that this lenity on my side, may not be Misconstrued, as a want of Zeal in carrying on the King's Service.

We have had a most severe Winter during which it has been with the greatest difficulty we have maintained our Stations, this has not been done without the Ships Sustaining some damage, the Asia making Sixteen or Twenty Inches of Water in Twelve Hours, the Phœnix does not make Water but her Bottom is a good deal cut with Ice. On the Eleventh we hauled off from the Wharfs to which we had been fast ever since the Twenty Ninth of December. Our fasts to the Shore were watched by the Citizens, to prevent their being Cut by Ill disposed persons, until the Arrival of Lee. We did not haul off without great apprehensions of Ice, but after the taking away the Guns, I thought it prudent to have the Ships in a Situation to Act; Until the thirteenth our Minds were much Agitated for fear of the Ice, having had many large Fields come in upon us, but fortunately of no Substance.

On the Sixteenth Mr. Clark the Officer Commanding the Armed Tender came and reported he had seen a great number of Armed Rebels upon the Bluff Point of Staten Island and that he imagined they were Fortifying; Upon this information I thought it my Duty to throw every Obstruction in the way of such an Undertaking; I therefore sailed with His Majesty's Ship under my Command to the Narrows, and Anchored close off the Point of Staten Island, lay there four or five Hours, but could not, either from the Mast Head, or from the Deck, discover any ground to be broke, or that there was any appearance of such an Intention. A great number of Armed Rebels paraded about, but as I could not fire upon them with any certainty, I did not choose to accustom them to Cannon Shot, where there was so little probability of having any good effect.

At the same time I moved down with the Phœnix, I ordered Captain Vandeput to move into the North River, and place himself in such a Situation as to prevent the Rebels taking Post, upon either Governor's or Hangman's Island. I am now laying in the Phœnix off of the Narrows, where nothing can pass but must come within reach of my Guns, nor can any thing move upon the Heights but must be seen from the Mast Heads.

Should any attempt be made to Fortify, I shall endeavour to retard it as much as possible, but cannot flatter myself with a Hope of being able to stop such Proceedings effectually the Land being above the height of my Tops. In this Situation I also Command the View of the Hook, and can see a great way to Sea; am therefore ready to dispatch the Armed Tender with Pilots to any Ship or Vessel that may be coming in. The Asia Commands the most Material passage up to the Town, And I am persuaded the Rebels never will dare to take possession of either of those Islands while she is able to keep her Station, which nothing but Ice can drive her from.

Mr. Lee much against the Inclination of the City, has cut off all supplies of Fresh Provisions; in return I have given Orders to Stop every necessary from going to it. It is reported and I have it from good Authority that Lee means to Fortify the back part of the Town by Intrenchments, and to erect some Batteries upon the Heights to Obstruct the Passage of both Rivers; as yet nothing of that sort is begun, nor do I apprehend any Batteries he can erect will be of any great consequence while we are able to prevent his doing of it at the Two passes where the Ships now lye.

I was much hurt at the Rebels taking the Ship Blue Mountain Valley, One of those loaded with Coals, Porter &ca. for the Troops, but in that case was particularly unfortunate, having the day before she was taken, dispatched a Lieutenant and fifteen Men in a Pilot Boat to the Hook, upon the report of a Ship being off; The Master on that day had stood off to Sea, the Lieutenant therefore returned and reported that there was not any Vessel in Sight; The day after the Ship stood in and was taken not without some Suspicions of Treachery on the Master's side. The Sloop that brings you these Dispatches was the Vessel seized upon as the Owners say for the above purpose, but I thought it a proper Step to Seize upon her, leaving it to you to determine how far they can justify such an Act of Piracy.

Governor Tryon's Letter of the 19th. of January was of such an Alarming Nature, that I thought it my Duty to guard against the consequences if possible; I therefore Ordered the Cargo to be taken out of the James Schooner lately Seized, and Armed the said Schooner (having no small Vessel of the King's upon this Station) to enable her to be so placed as to give me the earliest Intelligence, should the Enemy attempt to Assemble the Vessels mentioned in the Letter; since the Hauling off the Ships from the Wharfs she has been of infinite Service as a Cruizer.

I am Sir, to Acknowledge the Receipt of your Orders by the Mercury, she Arrived here the third of this Month and Sailed the Eleventh, I compleated her Provisions for three Months, during her stay the three Transports also Arrived and sailed with her.

On the Twentieth Arrived the Harriot Transport from England bound to the Army with Coals, Porter &ca. she left England the Ninth of December; I propose as soon as she is refitted, pushing her, the Ship with Salt and the Sloop loaded with Naval Stores, on to Rhode Island, in hopes of their getting from thence a Convoy to Boston.

I have received a Letter from the Mayor of New York, dated the Twenty first Acquainting me that His Majesty's Ships are to be supplied as usual with Provisions; In consequence of which I have given Orders to allow the Market Boats to pass to the City.

I am just now informed that the Rebels are pushing large Supplies of Flour &ca. from New York up Long Island Sound, this it is impossible for me to prevent; there is a Battery erected upon Long Island to defend the passage through Hell Gate, Another is began upon the Island of New York at a place called Benson's Bay, which will annoy any Vessels that may be coming hither through the Sound; as it is meant to defend the passage between Blackwell's Island and New York; It is also said Mr. Lee's plan is to Fortify the Wharfs by raising Platforms in the Cellars, where he means to place Guns so as to be upon a height with the level of the River at high Water; but this will never Answer his purpose, as Ships of any Size may come within Twenty Yards of the Wharfs.

On the 24th. January, Died Mr. George Clephan, Purser of His Majesty's Ship Asia; I appointed Mr. John Saunders to be Acting in the Station until your Appointment shall take place

In future I find by the Agent's Letter there is little probability of his being Able to Supply His Majesty's Ships with Rum, Pease, Beef or Pork; the first from it's not being allowed to be imported; the latter Articles from the Country People being terrified at the thoughts of being detected bringing them in.

I must Sir, beg leave to request you will be pleased to Order, by the first Man of War or Vessel that may come here, the Stores for both Ships, according to the enclosed demands, the Asia being distressed for want of them, and the Phœnix in great want of many Articles.

We are much distressed for want of small Vessels, I should therefore hope Sir, you would be pleased to dispatch this Vessel to me Again; with such Orders as you may have for me. I have the Honor to be,

Sir
Your most Obedient and
most Humble Servant

Enclosure 2

[INTELLIGENCE RECEIVED]

Copy Received the begining of Jany. 1776.

The following is a Copy of what was written under a Bill of such Goods as was immediately to be procured, the List of the Goods I had not time to Copy but they were Various Sorts, Gunpowder, Lead, Flints &ca. to the Amount of Twenty five thousand pounds Stlg Vizt.

These Goods should be purchased in Holland and France, and the most probable way to effect it will be immediately to send Vessels with Provisions for Portugal, Spain, and the Streights—Order the Proceeds to be remitted by Bills to Amsterdam or London. A Factor Capable of Transacting this bussiness in Holland, Hamb$\overline{o}$ro, and France should be immediately employed, Goods at Holland may at a Small risque and Charge, be sent to Dunkirk, and there be sent off —

At Holland Dutch Bottoms may be got for Saint Austatia—at Holland or Hamboro, Danish Bottoms for St. Croix.

I cannot find that the persons are Nominated as yet for this Bussiness, I shall endeavour to learn who they are to be, and what Vessels.—I think by what little I can learn that the Vessels fiting out here are part of them that are to be employed for the above Expedition one of them is a Ship of 36 Guns, her Head is the figure of a Man as Drawing a Sword. Bottom white, Sides Black and Yellow above—The Brig has no head at all, however as they dont sail yet I will let you know more particulars about them and who will be their Commanders.

There is to be Issued a further Sum of Three Millions of Dollars. I have enclosed part of a letter from Mr. Hellegas the Treasurer, it is broke to pieces but it will serve to Convince you that a further Sum is to be Issued.

They are very resolute to persevere in their Wars. News Came Yesterday, that one Regiment of Foot and three Companies of Light Horse was come to Long Island. Coll. Floyd said he was glad if they were, that they would soon be their Horses, he said if the regulars should guard a certain place between some Noted Name and Hell gate it would be difficult for the Provincial Troops to get on Long Island. Here is three persons from New York, One Captn. Greenol, One Brassier, and one Palmer, with a New Draft of Hudsons River, Signifying the Necessity of Building another Fort on Poop lopers Hill in the above River they also brought letters from the Convention of New York; I Copied off the following but opportunity would not allow me any further.

We take the Liberty to enclose you a Copy of our proceedings, respecting the Delinquents in Queen's and Richmond's Counties, we apprehend we have proceeded against them as far as prudent, with regard to present Circumstances of the Capital of this Colony and the Safety of the Colonies in general as far as it depends upon the Security of its Capital will permit, and for this Assertion we beg to Suggest the following reasons, to wit

1st.

The Power which the Kings Ships have for destroying the Property in this City.

2d.

Our being almost utterly destitute of Powder for the defence of the City, was it in other respects defensible against Naval Forces.

3d.

The great probability that an Array of Troops against the Abovementioned delinquents by Authority of this Congress, even were we Sufficiently provided for the purposes with Powder would bring on a Firing upon this City.

4th.

We are now expecting Vessels from the Importation of Powder &ca. &ca. this object should we unnecessarily incense the Navy we may lose, as well as the Opportunity of Supporting the Inhabitants of this City with the Necessaries of Life in a severe Season, which Necessaries it is well known we are Almost entirely supplyed with by Water.

The latter part of this letter signified that Troops should be sent from some other parts against the Abovementioned Counties.

Another Letter and a Copy of One that had been sent to Governor Thrumbull requesting him that the Types &ca. taken from Rivington might be delivered into the hands of the Chairman of the Committee of New York, and he would use his endeavour to prevent any inroads or incurtions into the Province of New York for the future.

Here is one Captain Sollick in this Town with three Others that came down from the back Forts with the Prisoners taken at Saint Johns &ca. I have made it my bussiness to get acquainted with them, Sollick is the fellow that took the Goods and Stores from Turtle bay; with his own Sloop, which he made free to tell me (being a friend of his) says he I had Authority and went to New York on purpose to take that old Tryon myself. I warrant I would have secured him; but when I came there the Damn'd Tories pretended to say it would be best to let him alone a little longer, had it not been for them I should have had him safe enough; he is now applying to the Congress for a reward for his bravery, he told me he intended to fit out his own Sloop with 6 Guns and a Number of Swivels for Privateering he is one of Connecticut, he further Assured me that there was at that Place two fine Schooners fiting out, One for Captain Sears, of New York, the other for Captain Craig—One of the others told me that three Companys of Troops was Stationed at Tycontoroga and St. Georges with a great number at at Saint Johns, 27,000 Men was fixed on to be embodied next Spring, but Since the News Came from England that an Army of 30,000 Men are to be sent over, I believe they are about to Augment their forces, however probably I may learn what forces they intend to resolve on.

The Privateers is froze up, but now the thaw will free them, and I shall know when they Sail, here is upwards of 100 Flatts built to be set on fire if any Fleet Comes up this River. they are to be Chain'd One to another in two Rows across the River and a large Chain to be put across, There is something of Great Consequence going to be put in Motion at Boston as soon as the Frost sets in, they mean to use the Utmost in their power, as I heard one of them say, that it would be of greater Consequence than Reducing of Canada.

[INTELLIGENCE FROM PHILADELPHIA]

(Copy) Thursday, 4th. January 1776.

This day about one o'Clock sailed the Ship Alfred and the Ship Columbus with Two Brigs,[1] the Alfred Carries 36 Guns 9 and 12 pounders, 60 Marines, and about 200 Sailors. Columbus about the same number of Men, and 32 Guns, the Two Brigs carries 16 Guns, they sailed with 5 or 6 Merchant Ships Loaded with Flour from the Congress. Hopkins Commands the Alfred, she has Yellow sides, her Head the figure of a Man, English Colours but more Striped;—The Columbus is all Black, except white bottom, with no Head, Commanded by one Whipple.

Hopkins says he will board after a few Shot at all events, they have got a Number of Grapnels, Spikes &ca. for boarding, with Cohorns on the Main top. A Sloop[2] of 12 Guns is to sail this Evening, she is a Sloop that came from Rhode Island. I dont know whether or not these Vessels are going but it is probable they will Convoy these Merchant men off the Coast as they are

[ORDER OF THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF NEW YORK FOR THE REMOVAL OF PUBLIC RECORDS]

Copy In Committee of Safety New York
February 11th. 1776.

This Committee observing that the Cannon and Military Stores on and near the Battery are now under removal to other parts of the City, and knowing that this Transaction both in its design and Execution is without the Consent of this Committee and even without their knowledge otherwise than as discovered from the Transaction itself, And as perhaps such a removal may bring on a firing upon the City from the Ships of War in this Port, which may greatly endanger the Publick records of this Colony. This Committee is fully of Opinion that the Publick Records ought to be immediately removed to a place of greater safety than that in which they now are; Therefore Ordered that the said Publick Records of this Colony together with Samuel Bayard Junr. Esqr. the Deputy Secretary of this Colony be forthwith Conveyed under a proper Guard of the Militia of the City of New York to the dwelling house of Nicholas Bayard Esqr. Alderman of the outward of the said City and be there Securely kept under such Guard until further Order of the Provincial Congress of this Colony or of this Committee of Safety. And the said Guard are hereby expressly required to permit the said Samuel Bayard Esqr. to have Continual access to and the direction of the said Records, except that he and every other person be prevented from removing them or any of them from the place where they are hereby Ordered to be deposited until the further Order of the Provincial Congress, or of this Committee. And ordered that Coll. Lasher be requested to furnish a proper Guard and see this order Executed.

And Ordered further that Colonel Lasher fix on such Officers and Company of his Regiment for this and any other Duty that may be directed as he shall think proper and report the same to this Committee. stant, His Majesty's Vessels here, are Employed Cruizing about the Bay and sometimes making Descents harrassing the Rebels as much as possible, they have abandoned the Island of Prudence to Us, and I expect the Island of Connanicut every day, what Hay and Stock they can't take away with them they burn and destroy they are making New levies, New Laws, every one who does not take a Test to join them, they disposses of their Houses, and send them Prisoners into the back Country, some that have escaped on board His Majesty's Ship, acquaint me that several of the Inhabitants are exceedingly tired of the War, wishes for Troops to arrive, that they may join them, it seems their Policy, to Distress the Country and the People in Order to leave them no alternative but entering into the Rebellion. We have found the Transport so necessary for our Wounded Men, that I could not conveniently send her, they are near recovered, and I flatter myself I shall soon send her loaded. I beg leave to observe, by the Weekly Return we run short of some Articles of Provisions, not to be got here, Indeed Fresh Beef and Greens &ca. Market stuff is all we do get. In some former Letters I mentioned to Admiral Graves the situation of the Towns about here, and my reasons for not destroying them, it would be a great satisfaction to know you sentiments upon that head, it has been my Opinion some time, that a small additional Land Force tack'd to the Squadron would secure this Post, and oblige them to keep a greater Number of Men to guard the Coast along the Sound, harrass, and do them great Injury and oblige them to give up all the Islands to us. —Lee has been sometime at York.—Hopkins is Sailed with the Philadelphia Fleet.—The Continental Con-

If Mr. Dawson has not already informed You, I am now to convey to you the disagreeable News, that the Friendship which Sailed lately from Boston for New York was cast away about 4 o'Clock in the Morning of last Friday Three Leagues to the Southward of Cape Cod—My first sight of her as I was standing towards the Land, was about 11 the same day, and appeared to be at an Anchor in a dangerous Situation on the open Coast, on my nearer approach I found she was high and dry on Shore; it blew Violently at NWt. by which means it prevented any communication between us; at 8 the same Evening I got round to the Northward of the Cape, came to an Anchor off the Coast and fired a Gun, as I knew there was then but a Neck of Land about Two Miles between me and the Wreck; I then expected to have got her Crew on board, but all to no purpose, it blew so Violently that Night and all the next day;—The Pilot of her is the only Person secreted from the Rebels, he was conveyed on board the Hope Brig, and Mr. Dawson has I believe been prevented putting him on board You agreeable to my directions, by He and Lieutenant Brown Chasing two Schooners to the Southward of Cape Cod. Chatham King Road, Boston Harbour 17th. March 1776.

Sir,

[Since my last to you of the 8th., the Fleet and Army have been busily Employed in Embarking the Ordnance and other Stores belonging to the King, in which the Rebels have given us little or no interruption, tho' their Cannon and Mortars have not been totally unemployed, and this Morning the Embarkation of the Troops was completed without the loss of a Man, and the Transports proceeded to, and Anchored at this ☞ place,] but I find a Considerable Quantity of Ordnance and other Stores are rendered useless, and left behind by the Army for want of time, as well as Shipping to carry it away, tho' the Troops are allowed but one Ton a Man in the Transports, and the extreme want of Provisions will not allow us to wait, I have therefore Appropriated a Transport (the Francis) to take on board

all the Naval Stores I could collect, which the Adventure Storeship could not contain, and have the pleasure to inform you as little will be lost in our Department as could be expected in so Sudden and unprepared for an event; I have also appropriated the Richmond Transport to the use of an Hospital Ship, 'till the Arrival of one from England for that Service.

Of the Ships taken up by the Commissioners of the Victualling, a List of which you transmitted to Vice Admiral Graves, accompanying your Letter of the 28th. of September those in the Margin (Resolution, Layton, Manners, Killingworth)[1] are not arrived, nor have any Account of them, by which Disappointment and the Necessity I have been under of Supplying the Army, there is but a small Quantity of any Provisions remaining, especially Beef and Pork proportionate to the Squadron, as you will please to observe by the Agent /Victuallers Account of Remains accompanying this.

Nantasket Road at the Entrance of this Harbour being at too great a distance for my observation of the Occurrences constantly passing there, I Ordered Captain Banks of the Renown to Superintend and Com†mand the Necessary Duty at that place, and as he is the Senior Captain at present under my Command and an Active Officer, to hoist and wear a Distinguishing Pendant, except in the presence of a Senior Captain.

I informed you in my Letter of the 26th. past of the number of small Vessels detained at this Port by Order of Vice Admiral Graves, several of which, that I could refit and Man, I have taken with me, and the others, either Sunk or destroyed, to prevent their being of use to the Rebels, among which are two Vessels of Three hundred Tons belonging to the Notorious Rebel Hancock, which were upon the Stocks.

[1] These vessels were driven out of their course to Antigua, whence they were to sail, under convoy, early in March.

As the Chatham and Centurion drew too much Water to be moved from their Station before the Town, except with a particular Wind, and at a Critical time of tide, as soon as our retreat was determined on, I ordered their Captains to take the first favorable opportunity of moving those Ships down to King Road, and Ordered Captain Montagu in the Fowey up to Boston to Defend the Embarkation of the Troops and Transports, and Cover the retreat, which he has done with the greatest propriety and Officer-like Conduct; Captain Raynor had the Command and Regulation of the Embarkation on Shore, in which He, and the Officers under him, acquitted themselves with equal Propriety, and in the disposition formed in concert with the General, shewed themselves Active, Attentive, and Intelligent Officers; ‡I have the pleasure to acquaint you that the greatest Unanimity and Harmony subsists between His Majesty's Fleet and Army, each party endeavouring to emulate each other in giving the strongest proofs of their Zeal and forwardness in the Discharge of their mutual trust and duty to His Majesty and the important Cause we are Engaged in.

Enclosure A

Extract of a Letter from Captain Hamond to Rear Admiral Shuldham, dated Roebuck at Virginia the 3d March 1776.

Sir,

By His Majesty's Ship the Mercury which arrived here the 17th. of last Month, I had the honor to receive your Orders respecting the River Delaware, and you may depend, Sir, that I will do my utmost to execute them: I confess, however that, I am of Opinion, as the River is now become rather formidable, a much larger force is necessary for that Service, than I am Able to carry thither from hence.

I have only here the Liverpool, ill Manned and Sickly, the Otter in as bad a State, And the King's fisher Sloop: One Ship at least must be left at Norfolk to protect the Governor and the Fleet there, and not less than Two can properly guard the Mouth of the Chesepeak bay. In my Judgment, Sir, not less than three or four Ships of good force with a small one to Cruize off the Capes Can promise much Success in opening the passage up so narrow a River, which the Rebels have employed their whole Art and Industry for this Year past to block up.

I understand those Chevaux de Frizes which the Rebels have Sunk, have at least forty or fifty Tons of Ballast in them, which I conceive will be very difficult to raise, especially as they are protected by Batteries on the Jersey shore and the Armed Craft in the River: Therefore, Sir, if you should think proper to Send more Ships as I hope you will, I should be glad to have a few Howitzers or Cohorns which will certainly be of great Service. I must also take the liberty of Saying that as Philadelphia is now an object of great consequence, I really think, if any Troops can be Spared, Two or three hundred Men to land Occasionally on each side of the River would be a great Assistance to the Expedition.

P.S. of a Private Letter from Captain Hamond, dated the 6th. March 1776.—

"We have just received an Account that the Rebels "have met with a most total overthrow in North Caro- "lina."

Enclosure B

[COMMISSIONER ARBUTHNOT TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

Copy Halifax 15th. February 1776.

Sir,

Yesterday a Corporal belonging to the 65th. Regiment arrived here express from Cumberland and brought an Account addressed to Brigadier General Massey from Lieutenant Barron of the King's Regiment, lately wounded at Boston; and Obtained General Howe's leave to pass the Winter with his Father who lives at that place.

He says that Cumberland and its Neighbourhood have formed themselves into a Committee, the same as the other Rebellious Meetings, in which they are joined by the Acadians, and the Majority of the Country people in general thereabout; for what they Call the preservation of Liberty.

They have resolved, to kill all the Bullocks, that remain in those parts, which have been purchased for the use of the Army and salt them for the Subsistence of the Rebels, by whom they say they are to be joined as soon as the Season breaks.

I have not the smallest doubt but the Rebels intend to make an Attempt upon this Province, the moment the Weather will permit, and I am no less confident that they have the hearts and good Wishes for Success, of by much the Major part of the People; under those Circumstances, I should presume it becomes a Serious consideration, how this Province is to be preserved; (with its present force:) I pronounce it impossible, barely five hundred fit for Duty at this moment out of Nine hundred Men upon Paper, as I hear.

The Cerberus, alongside the Wharf for to be cleaned, the Orpheus's Masts I hope to get in the beginning of the Week, and shall lose no time in refitting her; and you may rest Assured that we will not be Surprised with the Cerberus dismantled, because, we will soon get her Guns in and put her in a State of defence, but what then! two Frigates commanded by all the Heights about this place.

The Yard has had a Scaffolding erected round the Walls for Men to stand upon to fire over, but where are they? I have a Lieutenant and thirty Marines which Captain Le Cras left behind, by Order of Vice Admiral Graves; this is all I can reckon upon for I am Sure Brigadier Massey can spare none, neither will the State of the Frigates admit of any Assistance of consequence.

I hope you will therefore excuse my repeating my Opinion, that Two, two Deck Ships are much wanted, for the defence of this place; And if the Nature of the Service is such that no Addition to our force can be spared; I mean to put the Stores at present in the Yard, into such Transports and Vessels as I can find, for their Security; which I hope you approve of.

I could wish also, Sir, that you will procure a Vessel, for the business of my Sending you the earliest Account of our State; if you have none, here is a small Schooner, belonging to Captain Maltby, which can be purchased for 100 pounds that will do, as I am told she sails well.

I must likewise pray you will Order, a list of the Ships you mean to have Cleaned this Spring, that I may prepare for them.

You will find in a Letter to Admiral Graves a remark respecting Messrs. Grant issuing broken Species, such as Pork, Flour, &ca. and the rest are to be supplied out of the Fortitude Transport, by which you will perceive by the State of the said Ship herewith inclosed, that she has no more than Nine Puncheons of Beef left, and therefore I must request that you will Order a Supply of Beef to this place, or cause the Ships to be Victualled before they leave you; for I cannot answer the Demand of the two Frigates at this place, when you may have commands for them. I am with the greatest Deference.

Sir,

Your most Obedient and most humble Servant

Enclosure C

[GOVERNOR LEGGE TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

Copy. Halifax 25th. February 1776.—

Sir,

I take the first opportunity that offers to inform you, that by advices I received some time since from Cumberland, the People there, have got intelligence, that Canada is in the hands of the Rebels, and that they propose, an attempt from thence on this Province, early in the Spring, By the Bay of Verte, this has thrown the people of that Country into great confusion, from which it is apprehended, that the greatest part of those Inhabitants, who were originally from the Colonies, will at least remain Neuter, if they do not Join them, I have laid these matters before the Council, and shall transmit to General Howe, their Results thereupon.

I thought it my Duty to give you the Earliest Notice, that proper steps might be taken to prevent, if possible a Descent on this Province, from that Quarter, which unless opposed, they might easily effect, if they are in possession of Quebec, they will thereby, have in their hands a Frigate, a Sloop of War, and the Gaspee Brig, and therefore will require a considerable Naval Force to oppose them: I apprehend they will not be able to leave Quebec, till the first of May unless there should be an early Spring, the Navigation of the Gulph is free about a fortnight before the River of Canada is open, and as the places of Descent must be either in the Bay of Verte, Tatamagouch, or Pictou Harhour, a Course of Shore about twenty Leagues. Ships Stationed between St. John's Island, and that part of this Country, would effectually prevent it.

How certain this Intelligence may be I am not sufficiently Authorized to Affirm, but from the proceedings of the People at Cumberland, their having their Congresses, and meetings to consult upon the measures they shall pursue, gives it the greatest Air of Truth.

Captain Barry, my Secretary, who will have the honor to deliver you this, from his Situation here is well enabled to give any further information in this, or any other respect, relative to the Province, that you may think necessary to require. I am with great respect,

Sir, &ca.

Signed, FRANS. LEGGE.

27h March 1776

Sir

The Ordnance Board having been made acquainted with your representation in your Letter of the 28h. January last of the great scarcity of ordnance small Stores at Halifax for the use of the Fleet, particularly three and four Pound Shot for the small Cruizers; And they having in return, by their Letter of the 23d Instant, acquainted my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that a Supply of ordnance Stores is already sent to Halifax, and that a further supply is getting ready for that purpose, I am commanded by their Lordships to acquaint you therewith, in further answer to your Letter abovementioned I am &c

GEO: JACKSON D:S.

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham in Nantasket Road 27th March 1776.

Sir,

The day following the date of my last Letter which I sent by the Lord Hyde Packet, (Duplicate of which accompany's this) I was joined by the Milford, and Captain Burr delivered to me the Orders and Letters undermentioned, to which I shall pay all due attention.

Their Lordships Order of the 6th. of October 1775, to take the Syren under my Command; three Orders of the same Nature respecting the Boreas, Actæon, and Triton, dated the 20th. October 1775; An Order dated the 21st. October 1775 to send to Halifax, the Artificers who came out to be employed in the King's Yard there; An Order of the 24th. October 1775 to send the Foreman to the Smiths, to Halifax with the Artificers; and one to take the Milford under my Command dated 5th. January 1776.

Your Letter of the 20th. October 1775, signifying their Lordships direction that I should send the Charming Sally, an Ordnance Store Ship, under a proper Convoy to Halifax, another dated the 4th. November informing me of their Lordships having directed the Navy Board to send Three hundred Jackets for the use of the Marines serving on board the Ships under my Command; one of the 11th. November to acquaint me of Sir Peter Parker's being Ordered to North or South Carolina; another of the same date with four Inclosures of Articles of Intelligence relative to the Rebels Trading to European Ports for Warlike Stores; two others of the same date inclosing Schedules of Packets for the different Governors; one of the 17th. November acquainting me that two Subaltern Marine Officers were Ordered to Boston in the Triton two of the 19th. November one of which inclosed Commissions for Captains Montagu, Græme, and Graves, the other a Commission for Lieutenant Tyffe of the Marines who is on board the Experiment; From Mr. Jackson, one of the 4th. January 1776 respecting a Ship from Port L' Orient bound to some American Port laden with Salt Petre; another dated the 5th. January to inform me the Men sent to England from Fyal belonging to the Renown and Experiment were sent out in the Milford and Grey hound; one of the 6th. of the same Month conveying to me their Lordships pleasure that I should send the Artificers who were to have come out in the Boreas, but now Arrived in the Milford, to Halifax; Five of the 8th. January one of them signifying Sir Peter Parker's being on his passage to Cork, and of some Alterations made respecting the Ships of his Squadron; another to inform me of American Armed Vessels being in the Gulph of St. Lawrence and Canso Bay; one accompanying intelligence from Virginia and Maryland; the two others with the late Acts of Parliament and the King's Proclamation, and Draughts of different parts of the Coast of America; two of the 9th. one of them to signify their Lordships directions to me that such Men as had been taken from the Transports by His Majesty's Ships, should be returned to the Transports from whence they were taken; the other acquainting me of there being sent Marine Treatises, Statutes and Books of Instructions; and one of the 16th.,

inclosing a Duplicate Order relative to the Ordnance Stores on the Islands of Bermuda and Providence.

I think it necessary to inform you that the Charming Sally laden with Ordnance Stores mentioned in your Letter of the 20th. October 1775 is not yet arrived, and I must likewise acquaint you that the Brownhall which by your Letter of the 20th. September 1775. to Vice Admiral Graves, informs me was Ordered hither with Naval Stores is also not arrived, nor have I had intelligence of either of them, I have further to add that the disappointment of the Arrival of these Ships has occasioned him a great scarsity of Naval Stores, and that many Species of Ordnance Stores are much wanted by the Fleet, particularly for the small Arm'd Vessels.

[THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF THE ADMIRALTY TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM[1]]

By &c.

Whereas it is intended that Lord Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the Blue, shall proceed from Spithead in the course of next Month with a considerable Body of British and Foreign Troops to reinforce the Army under the command of General Howe, and that his Lordship shall take upon him the Chief command of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employ'd, and to be employed, in North America, and co-operate with the General in such Measures as shall be judged proper to be taken to quell the Rebellion which unhappily subsists in some of His Majesty's Colonies there; You are hereby required and directed to assemble at Boston such of the Ships and Vessels under your command as can be spared from other necessary Services, and continue with part of them in that Port and to keep others cruizing off that part of the Coast to meet his Lordship, until he arrives, taking care that they be held in constant readiness for the Sea; But if you shall learn that his Lordship instead of going to Boston, as is now intended, shall have proceeded to some other Port in North America, You are to concert with General Howe what part of the Naval Force it might be proper to leave at Boston in case he himself should continue, or should leave any part of the Army there, and proceed with the remainder to join Lord Howe at the Port where you learn he is;

[1] Admiralty Records, Secretary's Department, Orders and Instructions, vol. 100, p. 561.

Or, if it should be the General's Intention to proceed with the Troops from Boston to the Port where his Lordship with the abovemention'd Reinforcement shall be, You are, in such case to give all necessary assistance in embarking the Troops, and to convoy the General and then to such Port accordingly.

Upon joining Lord Howe you are to deliver to him attested Copies of our Instructions to you, and of such Orders as you shall have received from Us which remain in the whole, or in any part unexecuted; And to furnish his Lordship with such Information as may be necessary or in any degree useful to him in the execution of the important Service on which he is to be employed; And you are to put yourself under His Lordships command and follow his Orders for your farther proceedings. [GEORGE JACKSON TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM[1]]

29h March 1776

Sir

Having in obedience to the Commands of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty in my Letter of the 8h January last acquainted you with all that was then necessary respecting the Ships under the command of Sir Peter Parker I now do myself the honor to inform you that Sir Peter Parker put to Sea from Cork with the Ships and Transports under his Convoy on the 12h. day of the last Month but after being six days at Sea was met by bad weather which seperated him from part of his Convoy—Such of these as have put into Ports in England have been refitted and ordered to assemble at Plymouth, and they are now waiting to proceed under convoy of the Ranger which will put to Sea the moment the wind is favorable.

The Greyhound has been under Orders some time to join you, and is now on her way to Cork where she will take a Convoy of Victuallers and others and her Captain on his arrival at Boston is ordered to put himself under your Command and follow your directions for his further proceedings.

Besides this Ship there have sailed the Iris and Triton for the River St. Lawrence and with them two large Ships named in the Margin with Lieutenants to command them, (Lord Howe—Lieut. Pringle, Bute—Lieut. Parrey) which last mentioned Ships after landing the Troops they have on board are to be fitted as armed Ships and put on the establishment of Sloops, and the said Lieutenants are then to take upon them the command as such; having Commissions from their Lordships appointing them thereto.

These four Ships have taken in Troops intended for the relief of Quebeck, and have Orders to use their utmost endeavours to that end, and to remain at Quebeck or in the River St. Lawrence til they shall receive directions from you or the Commanding Officer of the Squadron in North America whose Command they are then to put themselves under.

Having obeyed their Lordships commands in these particulars you will I hope believe that I am &c.

Sir,

I am to inform you that His Majesty's Sloop Viper belonging to the Squadron under my Command which had been blown off the Coast and forced to bear away to the West Indies, arrived here yesterday from Antigua; and the Hawke Sloop having lost her Masts and forced to that Island by stress of Weather, Admiral Young[1] has transmitted to me the Dispatches which were to have been brought out in her; but as Duplicates of those Orders and Letters have been already received and acknowledged, I omit particularizing them.

The Packets for several of the Southern Governors, as mentioned in Captain Cooper of the Hawke's Order, (a Schedule of which is therein inclosed) I have also received, and shall forward them by the first Opportunity.

Admiral Young having transmitted to me an Account of such Ships and Vessels as were destined to America, and had been driven to Antigua I have the pleasure to inform you that the Layton, Killingworth, Resolution, and Manners, Victuallers are among the number, with several other Ships laden with Coals, Porter, Vegetables &ca. The Layton is Arrived here with the Viper, and the others Admiral Young informed me would be ready to Sail from thence by the first of March, and would come under Convoy of the Experiment, which Ship has also been forced to Antigua.

I have the further pleasure of acquainting you, that the Albion, on board which Ship you inform me by your Letter of the 21st. November were Vegitables for the use of the Fleet, is among those, of which I have received information from Admiral Young.

Chatham in Halifax Harbour 16th April 1776.

Sir,

I am to inform you that pursuant to their Lordships directions to me, I have Ordered the Nautilus to Bermuda for the protection of His Majesty's Stores on that Island. The Saint-John Armed Schooner has been for a considerable time at the Island of Providence, but as I am informed by Lieutenant Grant who Commands her, that she is very much out of repair and in want of Stores, I intend to relieve him as soon as it is in my power; But as the safeguard and protection of the Store

Ships and Victuallers which are hourly and impatiently expected upon the Coast, is an object of so great importance, it is impossible for me at present to dispense with the want of any one of the few Cruizers I have for that purpose; and I must further add that the Milford is the only Ship which has joined me from England since this Command has devolved upon me, except the Orpheus which I found here, and not yet ready for Sea, so that I have not Ships to appropriate to the various Services that demand my attention. Captain Banks in the Renown remains in Nantasket Road, and has the Command of the Cruizers in Boston Bay, to intercept and send to this place the Ships with the Supplies Ordered to Boston, and which will consequently be ignorant of the removal of the Fleet and Army.

You having by your Letter of the 11th. November communicated to me their Lordships desire that I should send a Reinforcement to Sir Peter Parker; in answer thereto I am to acquaint you, the Experiment which you mention, having been drove to the West Indies is not yet arrived, but is daily expected, and I have left with Captain Banks Orders for her to proceed immediately on her Arrival upon that Service, and it is my intention agreable to their Lordships recommendation, to send another Ship to him as soon as the Arrival of the Victuallers and Storeships will permit me to alter the present disposition of the Squadron.

Mr. Jackson by his Letter of the 8th. January informing me of several American Armed Vessels Cruizing in the Bay of Canso, and one in the Gulph of St. Lawrence, I have to acquaint you that I have not as yet been able to send a Ship to either of these places, but I intend the Orpheus for that Service, the moment she can be got ready, and I mean to send another as soon as it may be in my power.

Their Lordships will observe by the State and Condition of the several Ships sent herewith, how much short of Complement some of them are; and they will be pleased to consider the impossibility of Supplying in this Country the losses Sustained by Deaths and Desertion, the total cessation of commerce, rendering Press Warrants very ineffectual for that purpose.

Chatham in Halifax Harbour 17th. April 1776.

Sir,

I have the pleasure to acquaint you I have received information that the Brownhall, laden with Naval Stores, and destined to this place, is safe at Antigua, where she is said to have arrived the 13th. of February last, and I hope this Ship may be ready to avail herself of the Convoy of the Experiment.

[The arrival of that Ship will be a very seasonable Supply to us, although I fear by no means adequate to our wants; for I must beg their Lordships to consider, that added to the Demands from the numerous Squadron under my Command, I have many applications from the Transports for Pitch Tar and Sundry Articles of Naval Stores, which cannot be by any means Purchased in this Country; and as the good Condition of these Ships (which already amount to a very great number and must necessarily be more) is of the greatest consequence to His Majesty's Service, the method by which they may be Supplied deserves the most serious Consideration.] I am | Sir

Your most Obedt. Servant

[PHILIP STEPHENS TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM[1]]

18th. April 1776

Sir

Inclosed you will please to receive a Duplicate of a Letter of the 29th. of Last month wherein you are informed of every thing which at that time occurr'd to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty necessary for your information, in addition to what were contained in other Letters & Orders forwarded by the same conveyance.

[1] Admiralty Records, Secretary's Department, Out-Letters, 2, vol. 551, p. 457.

In the aforesaid Letter mention is made of the Ranger being appointed to convoy the Stragglers from Sir Peter Parkers Fleet; I am now to acquaint you that the said sloop sailed from Plymouth, on the 28th. of Last month, with the ships mentioned in the inclosed List marked A and that by Letters from Captn. Dickson of the Greyhound, also mentioned in the aforesaid Letter, My Lords are informed she sail'd from Cork, on the 5th. inst, having a Convoy consisting of four Ordnance Storeships, five Army Victuallers and the Levant with provisions for the use of the Seamen in the Fleet under your command, the Names of which are mentioned in the List B. This last Ship was originally meant to have accompanied the Ships which sailed with Sir Peter Parker, but not arriving at Cork in time, and from other circumstances, their Lordships have found it most advisable to send her to Boston, and they leave it to your discretion to send her or any other Victualler to join Sir Peter as you shall see fit, observing that from this deviation of the Orders to the Servant, the Ships under his command have no other supplies than the provisions each ship carried from England.

In addition to the Ships & Troops which you have been acquainted had sailed for the relief of Quebec; there have also sailed for the same place two convoy's One from Plymouth on the 7th. inst consisting of the Juno & Blonde with Transports carrying a Body of Brunswick & Hanau Troops whose numbers are about 3,000 Men, and the 21st. Regiment: & they likewise give Convoy to several Ordnance Storeships, the Names of all which Transports and Storeships are in the List C. The other Convoy sail'd from Cork on the 8th. instt. & consists of the Carysfort & Pearl with Transports having on board seven Battalions of British Troops whose names are in the List D.

Some other Vessels which were intended to have joined the Convoy from Plymouth, but could not be got ready in time, are now collecting & so soon as they are all at Plymouth will proceed to Quebec under Convoy of the Tartar, their Names you will find in the List E.

The Captains of the Carysfort & Pearl, Juno and Blonde have the same Orders as were given to the Captains of the Isis & Triton, which are to remain at Quebec til' they receive directions from you, & then to follow such Orders as you may think fit to give them for their further Proceedings: The Tartar will proceed under the like Orders.

There are two Highland Regiments consisting of 3,500 Men under Orders to be embark'd in the River Clyde & to join the Army under the Command of General Howe; The Transports appointed to carry them are now in the Clyde, ready to take the Troops on board, and the Flora in on the Way thither to take them under Convoy, and proceed to join General Howe's Army accordingly; and having so done her Captain is directed to put himself under your Command.

Since the appointment of Lord Viscount Howe to the Chief Command of His Majesty's Ships & Vessels in North America, My Lords have thought it necessary to Order Captn. Hotham to proceed thither in the Preston, with a distinguishing Pendant & with a Captn. under him; And I am to inform you the Eagle in which Lord Howe will hoist his Flag as well as the Preston are now at Spithead & ready to put to Sea. But those Ships with the Emerald Brune & Repulse, The Jersey Hospital Ship, Strombolo Fireship & Carcass Bomb are all unavoidably detained at Spithead waiting the arrival (which however is daily expected) of a body of about 9,100 Hessian Troops: but so soon as that happens, and the arrangements which always attends upon so great a number of Troops are made, they will sail with the Transports having the said Troops on board, together with those appointed to carry a Party of His Majtys. Foot Guard's somewhat exceeding 1,000 Men.

There will go under this last mentioned Convoy the several Navy Victuallers named in the Margin, (Success, Nancy, Success increase, Integrity, Stanly, Brittannia, Providence, Medway, Shipwright, Alborough) except the Alborough whose destination is changed from Boston to Quebec, loaded with four months Provisions for 10,000 Seamen, the particulars of which will be transmitted to you by the Commissrs. of the victualling, there will sail at the same time a Storeship with all kinds of Naval Stores to replenish the Magazines at Halifax, but she will be ordered to call first at Boston to give opportunity for any part of the Cargo to be taken out that may be wanted for ships which may be there at the time, & in this you will please to govern yourself as you shall see fit.

There is in a Naval Storeship which sailed with Sir Peter Parker a Compleat Set of careening Geer; Another is put on board the Storeship aforementioned; And a third Set with a further assortment of Stores is providing & will be sent as soon as possible to be made use of at such Ports or Places as the same may be found applicable to.

Besides the provisions now sending out for the Fleet which are calculated to serve to the 4th. of December next, a further supply for 4 Months for 13,000 Men is collecting, which their Lordships expect may sail in about Six Week; & by the end of August the like supply will be ready, which when arrived it is computed will serve to the beginning of August, 1777. And in the Orders for furnishing these Supplies, the Commissrs. of the Victualling are directed to provide & send sufficient Quantities of Candles for the time, and for the Number of Men last mentioned.

My Lords have frequent accounts of the assiduity of the Rebels in sending out Vessels with Trade to foreign Parts to barter for Arms and Ammunition, which make their Lordships extremely solicitous it may be watched, and prevented as far as possible; and of which they have great hopes from the Number of Ships and small vessels employ'd under you Command, & the Orders given to the same purpose to the Admiral's commanding at Jamaica, Leeward Islands & in the Mediterranean, their Lordships cannot doubt of your vigilence, as you, and every other Officer in His Majesty's Service, must be sensible the putting a Stop to this intercourse is of the first importance, & cannot fail of producing the most desireable Effects. By a Vessel which came from Philadelphia with Flour &ca. for Nantz,[1] where Arms & Ammunition were to be taken in exchange, but which was seized on the Passage by the Mate & Seamen & is now brought into Bristol, their Lordships have learnt several particulars proper for your Information, & the same are therefore transmitted for that purpose in a printed Paper accompanying this, which is found to correspond with the whole of what the Mate gave in upon examination in their presence; the Ship & Cargo are order'd to be proceeded against in the High Court of Admiralty, and in case of being condemned there, it is apprehended the Court will Order a Considerable part, or perhaps the whole of the Value to be given to the Mate & Seamen as a Reward for their Loyalty in seizing the Vessel aforementioned, and which it is their Lordships directions you make known as fully as you have opportunities of doing in hopes it may prove an Encouragement to others to do the same Justice to their Country as has been done by those Men. I am &ca.

I am sorry to acquaint you that yesterday Captain Howe arrived here very unexpectedly in His Majesty's Ship Glasgow having on the 6th. Instant off Rhode Island fallen in with and been attack'd by several Armed Vessels of the Rebels, in which Action she received so much damage that she was thought unfit to proceed on the execution of the Orders Captain Howe had received for carrying General Howe's and my Dispatches to the Southward, which were unluckily /thrown into the Sea; Herewith I transmit to you a Copy of Captain Howes Account of that Action together with /a Copy of Captain Wallaces Letter to me on the same subject, and as I find the Glasgow is in so shattered a Condition, and would require so much time, and more Stores than there is in this Yard to put her into proper repair, I intend sending her to Plymouth as soon as she can be got ready.

Remarks on board His Majesty's Ship Glasgow
Saturday the 6th. day of April 1776.

At two AM. Block Island then bearing N.W. abought eight Leagues, discovered a Fleet on the Weather beam, consisting of seven or eight Sail; tacked and stood towards them, and soon perceived them to be, two, or three large Ships, and other Square Rigged Vessels; Turned all hands to Quarters, and hauled up the Mainsail, and kept standing on to the NW with a light breeze, and smooth Water. The Fleet then coming down before it. At half past two a Brig much like the Bolton, but larger, came within hail, and seemed to hesitate about giving any answers, but still kept standing towards us, And on being asked what other Ships were in Company with her, they answered "the Columbus and Alfred, a two and twenty Gun frigate" And almost immediately, a hand Granadoe was thrown out of her top, We exchanged our Broadsides, she then shot ahead, and lay on our bow, to make room for a large Ship, with a top light, to come on our Broadside, and another Ship ran under our Stern, Raked us as she passed, and then luft up, on our Lee beam, whilst a Brig took her Station, on our Larboard Quarter, and a Sloop kept altering her Station occasionally. At this time the Clerk having the care of the dispatches for the So.Ward to destroy, if the Ship should be boarded, or in danger of being taken, hove the bag overboard with a Shot in it.

At four the Station of every Vessel was altered, as the two Ships had dropt on each quarter, and a Brig kept a Stern, giving a continual fire. Bore away and made Sail for Rhode Island, with the whole fleet within Musket shot, on our Quarters and Stern. Got two Stern chase Guns out of the Cabin, and kept giving, and receiving a very warm fire. At day light perceived the Rebel fleet to consist of two Ships, two Brigs, and a Sloop, and a large Ship, and Snow, that kept to Windward, as soon as the Action began. At half past six, the Fleet hauled their Wind, and at Seven tacked, and stood to the S.S.W. Employed, reeving, knotting, and Splicing, and the Carpenters making fishes for the Masts. At half past seven, made a Signal, and fired several Guns occasionally to alarm the Fleet at Rhode Island Harbour. The Rose, Swan, and Nautilus, then being working out.

NB.

We had one Man killed, and three Wounded by the Musketry from the Enemy.

Glasgow at Halifax the 27th. April 1776.

Sir.

Please to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that on my passage from Rhode Island to New York April the 6th. At half past two AM Rhode Island then bearing about N. b E. distant 14 or 15 Leagues, I fell in with a Rebel squadron, consisting of one Ship of Thirty guns, another of Twenty eight, Two Brigs, one of sixteen, the other fourteen guns, and a Sloop of twelve, and all full of Men, and continued engaging them broadside, and broadside an hour, and a half, when my Masts, Sails, and Rigging being very much shattered, and an Attempt made to board us; I bore away for Rhode Island, and continued a close running fight, until half past six, when they left us. As their principal intention was to disable, and then board us, our Masts, Sails, Rigging, and boats have suffered very much, by which means I was so fortunate as to lose but one man, and only three wounded, all by their musquetry. At Eleven I joined the Rose, Swan, and Nautilus at Rhode Island, who immediately went in pursuit of them; And after fishing all my Masts, and refitting my rigging as fast as possible, I made the best of my way for Halifax, where I arrived the Nineteenth Instant.

I should do great injustice to Lieutenant Pulteney,

Sir

I am to inform you that on the 19th. Instant Captain Barkley in the Scarborough arrived here from Savannah in the Province of Georgia, to which place their Lordships have been acquainted he was sent with two Transports and a small Body of Men under Major Grant, to procure Rice and other Supplies for the use of the Army; and I have the pleasure to inform you that the Quantity which has been Obtained by this measure is very considerable and is of the greatest Consequence in the present necessitous State of the Army.

I must also acquaint you that Sir James Wright the Governor of that Province being forced from his Government by the Violences of the people, arrived here in the Scarborough with his Family.

Captain Barkly having informed me in the Account of his proceedings that he had from Savannah by the Duke of Cumberland Packet sent information to my Lords Commissioners of the State of that Country, with other occurrences as well as that a Rebel Armament had Visited Providence with a view to carry off the Powder and Ordnance from that Island, I forbear mentioning any thing further on these Subjects, but I have great reason to believe that the Vessels which attacked the Glasgow, were those which had been at Providence.

I inclose to you a Copy of the information I have re-/ceived of the different Batteries at Charles Town South /Carolina, also Intelligence that the Rebels meant to intercept the Merchant Ships in their passage from Jamaica to England, both which Articles were Obtained by Captain Barkley during his stay at Savannah, and he thought the last of such importance that he sent immediate information of it to Admiral Gayton at Jamaica.

/ You will also herewith receive an Account of Ships and Vessels detained at Savannah, and which were set at Liberty by the Ships and Troops under Captain Bark-/ley and Major Grant, and likewise the Declaration of the Masters of the Ships so liberated.

I have also to inform you that Captain Barkley in returning from this expedition was under the necessity of putting into Rhode Island, where he expected to find some of His Majesty's Ships, but as those which were Stationed there had been obliged to quit that place the Rebels having erected several Batteries from which they were much annoyed, he was also fired upon and received some damage in his Masts and Rigging.

[DECLARATION OF THE MASTERS OF THE MERCHANT SHIPS LIBERATED AT SAVANNAH, GA.]

(Copy)
Province of Georgia
North America

We the Masters of the Undermentioned Ships and Vessels do declare and Attest that about November last We had permission to load our Ships and Vessels with Rice and other Commodities for Great Britain, at the Port of Savanah in Georgia, and having taken our Cargoes on board accordingly, we were stoped on the fifteenth day of December following by orders of the Council of Safety and detained by them at Savanah, and that We were at great loss and a heavy Expence of Seamens Wages and Victuals, in keeping them On board, which if we had not done they would have gone and Joined the Rebels, who offered them three pounds a Month. That upon the Arrival of the King's Ships in Savanah River, several of us applyed to Captain Barkley Commander of His Majesty's Ship Scarborough, and to Major Grant Commanding Officer of the Kings Troops, for protection, who assured us, We shoud have every protection in their power and further say that Captain Barkley and Major Grant having got up to the Town of Savanah with Several Armed Vessels and a Body of Troops—We were desired by the above Gentlemen to get our Vessels ready to sail up the Back River under Cover of His Majesty's Armed Vessels, as the Rebels had shut up the other Ship Channel both by Sinking a Hulk in it and erecting a Battery upon the Bluff—and that we were obliged in order to proceed under Cover of the said Armed Vessels to bring our Ships and Vessels to the draught of between Nine and Ten feet which obliged many of us to throw over board a Quantity of Rice, and we are of opinion and firmly believe that our Ships and Vessels have been saved by the interposition of His Majesty's Ships and Troops under the Command of Captain Barkley and Major Grant as they must otherwise have been detained or destroyed by the Rebels then assembled in Arms in Savanah, as they repeatedly ordered us to unreeve our rigging unbend our sails, and Unhang our Rothers.

And when the Kings Troops had got on board our Ships an Officer came from the Shore and declared if we did not immediately begin and Unbend our Sails We should be destroyed, which Officer was taken Prisoner.

To the truth of the Above We have hereunto Set our hands on board His Majesty's Ship Scarborough in Savanah River this 22d. March 1776.

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham in Halifax Harbour 24th. April 1776.

Sir,

Mr. Charles White Surgeon, and Agent for the care of the Sick and hurt belonging to His Majesty's Ship at Boston and who on the Evacuation of that place was removed on board the Richmond Hospital Ship, having represented to me by Letter that his ill State of health rendered him incapable of performing his duty with that Diligence and attention it required, and desiring that a person may be authorized to succeed him in his employment; I have therefore thought proper to Appoint Mr. James Dickson the Surgeon of the Chatham to that Office in the room of Mr. White.

Lieutenant David Ramsay of the Orpheus, Lieutenant John Kneebone of the Marines on board the Chatham, and Mr. Thomas Carr Gunner of the King's-fisher having represented by Letter to their respective Captains that they were rendered unfit to perform their several duties by their ill State of Health, and requesting leave to go to England for the recovery of the same, I have on representation being made to me by their Captains Ordered the Surgeon of the Hospital and two Surgeons of His Majesty's Ships to examine into the healths ///of the said Officers and as by the reports of the Surgeon's examinations, (Copies of which I enclose to you) it appears they are not able to discharge the duties of their different employments, I have complied with their requests.

I have Appointed Mr. Robert Barton to Act as Sec†ond Lieutenant on board the Orpheus in the room of Lieutenant Ramsay, and hope their Lordships will be pleased to confirm him in that Employment.

For all other Appointments and Removals, I refer you to the General Account I herewith inclose.

I am Sir

Your most Obedt. Servt.

Chatham in Halifax Harbour 24th. April 1776.

Sir,

/ You will herewith receive the Disposition of His Majesty's Ships under my Command, as also the State /and Condition of such Ships of the Squadron from which I have received them since my last Dispatches to you.

From the disappointment of the Arrival of the Victuallers, and having Supplied a considerable quantity of the Provisions intended for the Fleet for the subsistence of the Army, I have judged it necessary to Order the Crews of His Majesty's Ships to be put to Two thirds allowance until a farther Supply may arrive.

/ I likewise transmit to you the Sentence of a Court †Martial held on the late Boatswain of the Roebuck, and /also an Account of such American Vessels as have been taken and detained by the Fleet under my Command according to the latest information I have received.

Chatham in Halifax Harbour the 25th. April 1776.
Sir

Having in my Letter of the 16th. Instant offered to their Lordship's consideration the deficiency in the Complements of several of His Majesty's Ships under my Command, and as their Lordships will perceive by the States and Conditions of the Ships transmitted to them, that many Supernumeraries are borne, I must beg they will please to observe that these being composed of Men taken out of the Rebel Vessels no confidence can be placed in them, and although the Captains of His Majesty's Ships under my Command have all of them more or less, entered Americans to fill up their Complements, and are now by Law empowered to do so, with regard to Men taken in future, yet it deserves to be seriously considered, that if by a constant diminution of the British Seamen upon this Service, this measure was carried to excess, without any Supply from home to be distributed among the Fleet the consequence may be very alarming: their Lordships will therefore see the necessity there is of my keeping compleat the parties of Marines belonging to the different Ships, but as I have directions to send to the Battallion serving on shore the Marines of such Ships as I may Order to England, I submit it to their Lordship's judgment whether it will not be for His Majesty's Service that I compleat the Marines on board the Ships that may want them, out of those they have designed for the Battallion before they are disembarked. I am

Sir,

I am to inform you Captain Furneaux of the Syren has acquainted me that, on the 15th. Instant he took a Brig belonging to the Rebels which was carrying from Philadelphia to Charles town in South Carolina, a Company of Artillery consisting of a Captain Commissioned by the Continental Congress, and Seventy nine Men, the most of whom have since Entered into His Majesty's Service with General Clinton.

I am likewise to acquaint you that, there having been taken a Sloop belonging to New York and bound to Saint Martin's with Flour and Lumber, the Master of her has given the following information; that he left New York on the 2d. Instant, and on the 5th. he fell in with several Armed Ships and Vessels belonging to the Rebels, (which I believe are the same that attacked the Glasgow) that he was carried on board the Rebel Commodore to be examined, and that while he was there a person was brought on board who wore the Uniform of a Lieutenant of the Navy which from his Description was probably Lieutenant Sneyd who Commanded the Bolton Armed Brig,[1] for as she is still missing I am afraid she has fallen into their hands; and he farther adds that he was informed they had been at the Island of Providence, from whence they had taken the Governor, his Secretary, and most of the remaining Stores.[2] | I am | Sir

Sir

I had yesterday the honor to receive your Letters of the 25th. 26th. & 27 of Feby. & of the 8th. 17th. & 23rd. of March last, all which with the several Inclosures were immediately communicated to my Lords Commrs. of the Admty; In return I have it in command from their Lordships to acquaint you that a Case respecting

[1] The Bolton was captured by Commodore Hopkins' squadron on April 4, 1776, the day before the engagement with the Glasgow.

[3] Admiralty Records, Secretary's Department, Out-Letters, 2, vol. 551, p. 534.

the seizure mention'd in your Letter of the 26th. feby. will be stated for the Opinion of the Law Secretary of the Crown, & that you will receive their Lordships direction in Consequence thereof without delay.

Their Lordships entirely approve of the Steps taken for embarking the Army & of the diligence and activity of the Officers employed on that service & it is with great pleasure they receive the Account you give of the unanimity & harmony which subsist between His Majestys Fleet and Army—Their Lordships approve of the supply of provisions which you spared to the Army & with respect to the 4 missing Victualling Ships mentioned in your Letter of the 8th of March I am to acquaint you that they were driven to Antigua, from whence they were to sail, the beginning of March, under Convoy of the Experiment together with several of the Army Victuallers in the same predicament and their Lordships hope they will have joined you before this comes to your hand, & that the Provisions they have on board will serve 'til the arrival of the Victuallers mentioned in my Letter of the 18 Ult. by the Canceaux which Victuallers have (exclusive of the Provisions on board the Alborough) a supply of 4 Months for 9,000 Men & are now at St. Helens upon the point of sailing under Convoy of Commr. Hotham.

The first supply of 4 Months for 13,000 Men mentioned in that Letter will be ready to sail by the end of this Month. The next supply for the same time & number of Men which was intended to be sent out in Augst. next will now be Dispatched earlier to you; & such further supplys will follow in the Course of the Summer, as shall be judged necessary.

My Lords approve of the order you gave Captn.

Banks to wear a distinguishg. Pendant while employed on the service mentioned in your Letter of the 17 of March; but as there will soon be two officers in North America with distinguishing Pendants and Captains under them, their Lordships Judge that it will be no longer necessary for Captn. Banks to wear one, and you will therefore please to order him to discontinue it upon the Arrival of W Hotham. I have &c

Mr. Brymer Agent to the Contractor for supplying Rum to His Majesty's Ships upon this Station, having /by Letter (Copy of which I herewith inclose you) furnished me with his reasons why he could not comply with the Contract, and the Ships being in immediate want, I have been under the Necessity of making application to General Howe and borrowing Ten Thousand Gallons from the Store belonging to the Army, of which I have acquainted the Victualling Board, that the necessary Measures may be taken for a future Supply.

I profit likewise of this Opportunity to inform you †that there is a great Scarcity of Ordnance Small Stores, particularly Match, at this place, of which the Storekeeper tells me he has repeatedly acquainted the Ordnance Board some Months ago. I am

Sir,

I am to acquaint you that General Howe and the Army under his Command, still continue at this place waiting for the Arrival of a Supply of Provisions; and having informed you in my Letter of the 19th. past which with my other Dispatches I sent you by the Princess Augusta Victualling Sloop (Duplicates of which you will now receive) of the Accident that had happened to the Glasgow, and my intention to send her to England to be fitted; I have therefore Ordered Captain Howe to take under his Convoy Such Vessels as are ready to accompany him, (among which is the Harriot Packet having on board Mr. Legge Governor of this Province) and proceed to Plymouth.

I need not represent to their Lordships of how much greater importance the King's Yard and Harbor of Halifax, as well as the whole Province of Nova Scotia is now become, than formerly; and of consequence they will please to consider the great necessity of keeping the Bay of Fundy well guarded to prevent any Hostile attempts being made upon this Province from thence by the Rebels; this will require an Additional Number of Ships, and their Lordships will please to Observe by the Disposition of the Squadron, how very inadequate even the great number I have under my Command is to the various Services I am Ordered to Execute, and the different Posts I have to defend, especially as the Rebels are indefatigably employed in Equipping a Naval Force in all their Sea Port Towns in the several Provinces.

The Orpheus being refitted sailed the 5th. Instant under Orders to Cruize between the West End of Long Island and Cape Henlopen, calling in occasionally at New York and the Delaware: and having intended to have put the Glasgow under the Command of Captain Hamond in the Delaware, I have sent the King's fisher Sloop to supply her place.

I have Ordered on board the Glasgow Such Seamen and Marines, belonging to the Ships under my Command, as from Accidents and Disorders have been on examination found unfit for His Majesty's Service.

I am to acquaint you that last night His Majesty's Sloop Swan arrived at this place having a few days ago fallen in with the Dispencer Packet, bound to Boston, and taken out of her the Dispatches for General Howe and me; all which I have received and caused to be delivered; and am particularly to acknowledge the receipt of their Lordships Order of the 29th. March, wherein they are pleased to inform me that "it is intended Lord Viscount Howe should proceed to the Course of last Month to take upon him the Chief Command of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed in North America, and on his Lordships arrival to put myself under his Command and follow his Orders for my further proceedings," in answer to which I beg leave to acquaint you for their Lordships information that I shall with great Chearfulness resign that Command to his Lordship in the consciousness of having discharged my Duty with Fidelity to His Majesty, and with the Diligence and attention the importance of the Service required during the short Period in which I had the honor of being entrusted with it.

The Evacuation of the Town and Harbour of Boston by the Fleet and Army I find was not known to their Lordships at the time their Orders were dated, and I presume they will see by my Letters that all proper measures were taken on that event taking place; I shall now consult with the General what further steps are necessary to be taken previous to, and respecting the Arrival of Lord Howe with the great reinforcement of British and Foreign Troops proceeding with His Lordship to America, and act conformable thereto, and I hope to their Lordships approbation—

Chatham Halifax Harbour 20th. May 1776.

Sir

[I am to inform you of the arrival of His Majesty's Ship Greyhound at this place the 16th. instant, and also of the whole of her Convoy except the Hope, laden with Gunpowder and Ordnance Stores, which Ship I am sorry to acquaint you seperated from the Greyhound the 10th. in a very thick fog, and has not since been heard of; but as I am acquainted by Captain Dickson that he having before his departure from England received an anonymous Letter which intimated that the Master of that Ship was disaffectedly inclined, and that he on that account had put a Petty Officer and two Men on board her giving directions to the Officer "to attend "very particularly to the conduct of the Master, and if "he suspected him of any design to seperate from the "Convoy, or to put the Ship in the way of being taken "by the Rebel Privateers to confine him, and take the "Command of her, and offer a handsome reward to the "Seamen on board for their Assistance, if it should be "necessary" and as in my disposition of the Cruizers, I have taken every precaution for the protection of such Vessels as may come upon the Coast, and particularly those that may be Ordered to Boston, I hope she will be met with by some of His Majesty's Ships.]

Captain Dickson delivered to me the following Orders and Letters, which shall be duly attended to.—

Orders.

29th. Januy. 1776. . To increase the Complements of the Ships as therein mentioned.

26th. Febry. . . To put the Hope on the establishment of a Sloop

29 . . . . To take Captain Dickson in the Greyhound under my Command.

Letters.

20th. February Mr. Jackson's inclosing Commissions for two first Lieutenants of Marines.

23rd. . . . . Do. acquainting me of my being promoted to Vice of the Blue.

5th. March Do. to acquaint me of a Subaltern and twenty three Marines being sent in the Greyhound to be distributed to the Ships short of complement, and of their Lordships intention to send out Marines in future for that purpose in Vessels laden with Supplies.

Chatham in Halifax Harbour the 20th. May 1776.

Sir

[I am to inform you His Majesty's Sloop Savage arrived here the 17th. Instant with dispatches from New York, bringing under Convoy the Ship Lady Gage and two other Vessels taken at that place by His Majesty's Ships.

I herewith transmit to you Copies of Captain Park-/er's Letter, and the several Articles of Intelligence with which it was accompanied.]

Their Lordships having by Mr. Jackson's Letter of the 29th. February signified to me their directions that I should purchase a Ship at Boston recommended by Lieutenant Mowat to be established as a Sloop in His Majesty's Service, which Vessel having been destroyed at the Evacuation of that place by the King's forces, and as the Lady Gage appears to be in every respect proper for that purpose, it is my intention to purchase and establish her as a Sloop of War.

[You will also receive by this Conveyance a List of /such Vessels as have been Seized or Taken by His Majesty's Ship as have come to my knowledge, since my last Account. Their Lordships will observe among them a Schooner which was laden with Gunpowder, Arms, and other Military Stores, taken by the Cerberus, and Diligent Brig, the Cargo of which Vessel appears to have cost Twenty seven thousand Livers at Cape Francois, and the additional number of Ships which will in future be employed upon the American Coast must necessarily render the Rebels obtaining Supplies of these, and other Articles, still more difficult and precarious.]

Enclosure A

[CAPTAIN PARKER TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

Copy
Sir,

I received your Dispatches of the Sixth Instant, by Captain Bromedge of His Majesty's Sloop Savage; Your Letter of the Twentieth of March is truely distressing and am afraid the unhappy cause that Obliged His Majestys Troops to go to Halifax will in a great Measure interrupt the Success upon this Province; there being now in the City of New York, upon Long Island, the Jerseys and Straten Island, Ten or Fifteen Thousand of the Provincial Army, which have, ever since the Embarkation of the King's Troops from Boston, been pouring in from the Camp at Cambridge and Pensylvania, these are now indefatigable in Fortifying every Height; The Fortifications about the Town you have an Account of in the Papers Marked Number One and Two; Ground is Marked out upon each side of the Narrows for Batteries.

You will see Sir, by the Printed Advertisement of General Putman's that all communication with us is cut off, and Hostilities commenced by them upon the Seventh; Suspecting that it would soon happen, I was desirous of having the Ships Water compleated, for which purpose I Ordered Captain Bromedge to the Watering place upon Straten Island (a place we had always Watered at without interruption) Captain Bromedge's Orders were not to Fire, until our People were fired upon; these Orders were punctually executed; for, at half past Nine in the Morning, about Five hundred of the Rebels came down a hollow way, and were not discovered, until they were so near the People placed to look out, that their retreat to the Boats was effectually cut off. The Rebels without any sort of Warning fired immediately upon the People employed filling the Water, upon which Captain Bromedge began, and not until then, he very soon dispersed the Body to about Fifty, which Sheltered themselves behind Rocks, and in little Hollows, laying upon their Bellies and keeping up a very galling Fire, so much so, that he dare not venture a Boat to bring off his Cutter, which his Petty Officer very imprudently had allowed to Ground, finding he was not able to dislodge those Rebels, I made his Signal to come off.

The Situation of the Two Ships at the Arrival of the Savage was the same Sir, as when I had the Honor of writing you by Mr. Clark. But having received information that the Rebels had an intention, of making an attempt to set the Asia on Fire, by means of a Number Vessels chained together, to be sent down upon an Ebb Tide, which runs very Strong. I was apprehensive this might be attended with disagreeable consequences, if not fatal, as her own Boats would be of very little effect upon such a Weight as a Number of Vessels chained together, in so strong a Tide's Way. Besides the great probability there was that the Rebels would erect Batteries upon Red Hook, from whence they might have Annoyed her very much. These reasons induced me to Order her down, nor should I have risqued that Ship so long, had I not been in daily expectation of the Fleet and Army. For while we were Able to keep those Stations; a clear passage was kept open up the North River. Since the Asia has drop'd down, the Rebels have taken possession of Governor's Island where they have thrown up some Works, and also upon Red Hook.

As any attempt of ours to interrupt their Fortifying the Narrows must in the end prove ineffectual from the great Height of the Lands upon each side. I judged it would be most conducive to His Majesty's Service, to preserve this place as a Port, and effectually Block it up, for which purpose, I have now placed the Asia, just above what is called the upper Middle Ground, a pass that the Rebels might in a great Measure, by sinking of Vessels, interrupt the passage of the Channel for the present. The Phœnix is at the Hook, which is the only place we can get Water, and this is of so Brackish a Nature, that I dread the Effects of it upon the Men's health's.

Upon the Twenty Seventh of March having information, that the Ship Lady Gage, was moving from the Kilns (a place she had lain Aground from the time of her Arrival in the Winter) in order to go to Elizabeth Town, from whence it was proposed to push for Philadelphia, to fit her out as a Privateer, I immediately Ordered the Boats of the Two Ships under the directions of Lieutenant Robertson, to go and if he found it practicable, to cut the said Ship out, if not to set her on Fire; At the same time to send a Boat to Elizabeth Town Point, where the Blue Mountain Valley Transport laid (the Ship taken during the Winter) and if the Officer found her unguarded, he was to board her and set the Ship on Fire, both these Orders were Executed with punctuality and without loss. The Lady Gage is a fine New Ship, and a remarkable fast sailing One.

On the Thirteenth the Nautilus Arrived with your Circular Letter; the other Dispatches you sent by the Glasgow, having been thrown Overboard in their Engagement with the Rebel Privateers.

The Situation His Majesty's Ships were in at this Port for want of Water, induced me to detain the Nautilus until the Twenty fourth, in Order to cover the Boats upon that service, until we had put the Light house in a State of defence, in doing of which I was reduced to the Necessity of burning the Dwelling house Annexed to it. The Lanthorn of it was totally destroyed by the Rebels on the Tenth of March, which has rendered the Light wholly useless as to Navigation.

I think it my Duty Sir, from the confidence you have been pleased to place in me by communicating the Situation of His Majesty's Troops, to tell you, that I do not imagine any Quantity of Provisions is to be expected in this Province, until the Continental Army has received a severe Blow, and the King's Troops get possession of the Country, for however well inclined the greatest part of the Inhabitants of this Province are to give every Assistance, it is not in their power; As the Rebel Committees are in possession of all the Landing Places, which totally prevents the Shipping of Provisions &ca. unless by their Permission.

The Rebels have sent large Detachments of Troops towards Quebec, and a strong report prevails, that they have lately received another severe Check in that Quarter, but it is impossible in our present Situation to get at the Truth. They are exceedingly Assiduous both here and at Philadelphia in fitting out small Privateers, which I am apprehensive will in a very short time Infest this Coast so, that no Vessel unless well Armed will be able to approach this Port. Considerable Exportations of Flour are also carried out by the East end of Long Island.

The News Papers say that the Privateers which fell in with the Glasgow, have lost a good Many Men and are considerably Shattered. These Ships by the same Channel are said to have been at Providence, taken the Governor Prisoner and brought off all the Military Stores to a considerable Amount. The Continental Congress Publickly publish in their News Papers Orders for making reprisals of all British Property, as also Copies of Commissions and Instructions for their Privateers.

From the Contractor of this Port, not being able to furnish the Ships with Rum, Pease, Butter and Cheese, the Asia begins to feel a great want in the three last Articles, to remedy this Evil as much as possible, I have Ordered her to be Supplied with Flour and Melasses from the Prizes in lieu of those Articles, and have also compleated the Spirits on board both Ships to three Months, from Rum of the Cargo of the Brig Mary. It having been represented to me, that the Limes on board the Brig Diligence were perishing; I have with Advice of the Surgeons; Divided what remained between the two Ships with Orders for a Quantity of the Juice to be Mixed with the Grog.

His Majesty's Pacquet Boat the Swallow Arrived at this place, March the Tenth and has been detained by the Governor, for Government Dispatches until the Nineteenth of this Month; Since which it has not been in my power to give her Convoy, being under the Necessity of keeping the Savage constantly in Store to Cover the people employed Watering.

Lieutenant Oldfield of the Marines having died since my last Letters, has induced me to defer the complying with your Order, for the Discharge of Lieutenant Sterling, until you shall be pleased to Order another Lieutenant to the Command of the Party.

You will see Sir, by the report of Vessels taken that a Number of them have been Sunk, and destroyed, these were such that were by no means fit to be sent to Halifax and the putting Men into them would have Weakened our Ships considerably, I therefore saw no other Method of disposing of them, but destroying of them.

Having received intelligence of a Schooner with Arms from Providence being to sail soon after the Vessel in which those Letters for Admiral Graves came; I judged that those Letters might have contained some Intelligence respecting the Schooner, I therefore took upon me to open them.

Enclosed Sir, I have the Honor of transmitting the State and Condition of His Majesty's Ships under my Command, as also the different reports &ca. respecting them since my last Letters. I have the Honor to be,

Sir,
Your most Obedient and
most Humble Servant.

The above where the Letter E stands are Batteries with Guns mounted as stands in the Columns. The Letter S is Breast Works for small Arms only. That Breast work on the Hill by the Jews Burying Ground will contain near 400 Men, it is made in an Angular form, with a large Trench all round; The Entrance into it on the bark part facing Mr. John's House on the Hill going to Corleys Hook. The Breast work round the New Hospital is in Squares with a Trench all round, 10 feet wide at the Top, and at Bottom one foot and half, this Breast Work will contain about 300 Men, and as they intend to Line the Hospital with Men to Fire over the Breast Works I know not how many Men it will contain.

There is one thing I shall remark that their Embrazures are so narrow and confined, that should any Ship pass, there is no one Gun can bear more than once to do any Damage to any Ship. That Battery on Long Island is so narrow and confined that it will not contain above 300 Men.

I need not give the Names of the Streets in the Town that is Blockaded, as every Street facing both North and East Rivers has wooden Trunks made across 10 feet thick filled with Earth, in Order to intercept any Troops that may attempt landing. I cannot see any Cover for the Rear, only Mr. Byards Hill, it will contain near 300 Men, One Gun points across to Greenwich and one over Mr. Delancy's House, Two directly up the Road to Kings Bridge, and four Guns over the Town, but I never saw any Works worse Plan'd on such a Spot of Advantageous Ground. The Numbers placed in the Total Column has not yet their Guns placed, but are to mount the Number as above Marked. In the Total Column, the half moon Battery on Black Sams Hill will contain about 400 Men; This Battery is Open on the Side next to the New Hospital as the Hospital Covers it.

The Cock Pitt Battery behind Mr. Harris's Brew House will contain about 250 Men. The Battery behind the Governors House, it may contain about 200 Men or more. The Battery at the Ship Yards may contain 500 Men; they have began a Redout about a quarter of a Mile behind the Battery on Long Island, which appears to be pretty large, but as they have not done any work at it for this two Days, I immagine they are going to alter the Plan of it. As to Fort George, they have pulled down all the Square, fronting Broadway and the Embrazures on the Ramports not finished I shall leave that 'til another opportunity.

Secret Intelligence.

Since my last of April 9th. I have endeavour'd to collect the number of the Brigade which arrived from Boston the 9th. and 10th. Instant commanded by one Sullivan, which is Six Regiments, about 550 Men in each Regiment, and on the 11th. instant the following brass field pieces arrived here from Cambridge, Four 6 Pounders, two of which are the King's, Four 3 Do. and Two, 4 Do. Total Ten. Eight 6 Poundrs. belonging to New York, which were cast at the Forge on Greenwich Road—those Six belonging to New York are joined in a Park with the King's, by the Liberty Pole. The total in all Eighteen.

From Philadelphia the 12th. instt. arrived here 40 Artillery Men—Mr. Washington arrived here the 13th. as a private Gentleman the 14th. and 15th. arrived from Boston 120 Men and from the best Accounts I can get from them, they left in Boston Six Regiments which may be near 3060 Men; and they are the whole of Washington's Troops left in or near Boston. But if any attempt should be made by the King's Troops there, they wholly depend on the Assistance of the Country Militia.

The two Privateers fitted out here has not met with such good success as they expected, they cannot get Men to man them as yet—One that carries Six 4 Pounders is to have 40 Men, and the other that carries Four, 4 Pounders is to have 30 or 35 Men—

They have now mounted on Fort George Seven Guns 32 and 12 Pounders; and on the lower Battery under Fort George have mounted Ten 32 Pounders—the Embrazures on this last Battery, are not as yet finished. They have three 32 Pounders mounted on the Cock pit Battery, behind Mr. Harrison's Brew-house near the Forge.—There is no alteration in the rest of the Batteries since the Account given the 9th. April, only the redoubt on Long Island is entirely left off, which was all the cover they had for their rear, they have made one small Breast Work between the Ferry and the Battery on the Bank, forty paces round and open in the rear. The works on Governors Island and red Hook, they are now working at. I have not seen, but am made to understand, that on the Governors Island is to have Four Guns, the works are about 400 Yards round—Red bank is to mount Three Guns. I am informed they are throwing up some works on each side of the Narrows, but cannot affirm it for a certainty.

I can say no more at present, but will do every thing in my power to serve his Majesty's Arms.

I am &ca.

NB. Since I wrote the fore part of the above, two Brigs and three Sloops, are come down the Sound, with the remaining part of Washington's Army about 300 Men. It is a great pity that some method cannot be taken to stop the communication down the Sound to the Town; as it would certainly prevent the Rebels from receiving any supplies but by Land.

NB. This Letter is from a Man whose Information has proved he may be depended upon. No. 1 is from the same person.

[RESOLUTIONS OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS]

Philadelphia, April 8. In Congress March 6th. 1776.

Resolved, That any goods, wares and merchandizes, except staves and empty Casks, other than shaken or knock'd down casks for Molasses, may be exported from the Thirteen United Colonies, by the Inhabitants thereof, and by the people of all such Countries as are not subject to the King of Great Britain, to any parts of the world which are not under the dominion of the said King: Provided that no Vessel be permitted to export any greater number of shaken or knock'd down Molasses Casks than the same Vessel is capable of carrying when they shall be filled with Molasses.

Resolved, That any Goods, wares and merchandize, except such as are of the growth, production or manufacture of, or brought from any Country under the dominion of the King of Great Britain, and except East India Tea may be imported from any other parts of the world, to the Thirteen United Colonies, by the Inhabitants thereof, and by the people of all such countries as are not subjects to the said King, liable however to all such duties and impositions as now are or may hereafter be laid by any of the said Colonies.

Resolved, That nothing herein contained shall be understood to prevent such future commercial regulations as shall be thought just and necessary by their United Colonies or their respective legislatures.

Resolved, That no Slaves be imported into any of the Thirteen United Colonies.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Assemblies and Conventions in the several Colonies to appoint proper Officers at Convenient places in their respective Colonies to take Bond in adequate penalties, for observing the regulations made by the Congress or Assemblies or Conventions, concerning Trade, and for securing the observation of such parts as are not inconsistent therewith, and that the obligor shall within Eighteen Months after the departure of the Vessel, produce to such Officers a Certificate under the hands and seals of three or more reputable Merchants residing at the Port or place where the Cargo shall be delivered, that the same was there unladed, and take manifests upon Oath of the Cargoes exported and imported, and keep fair Accounts and Entries thereof, give bills of health when desired, grant registers shewing the property of the Vessels cleared out, and Sign Certificates that the requisites for qualifying vessels to trade have been complied with, and that the fees of the said Officers be stated by the respective Assemblies or Conventions Provided always that no prosecution upon any of the said Bonds shall be commenced but within three Years after the date thereof.

Resolved, That all goods, wares and merchandize, except such as are made prize of, which shall be imported directly or indirectly from Great Britain or Ireland, into any of these United Colonies, contrary to the regulations established by Congress, shall be forfeited and disposed of agreable to such rules as shall be made by the several Assemblies or Conventions, or shall be liable to prosecution and condemnation in any Court, erected or to be erected for the determination of maritime affairs in the Colony where the seizure shall be made.

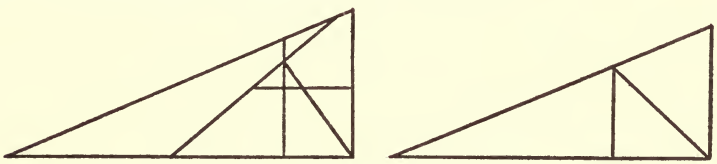
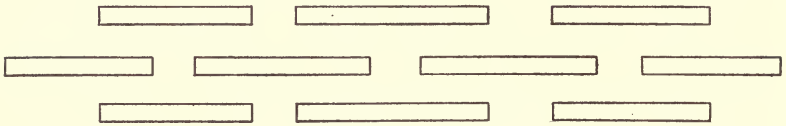
[PLAN OF THE CHEVEAUX-DE-FRIZE IN THE DELAWARE RIVER]

If any part of the Fleet are Ordered up to Philadelphia, the formidable bug-bears which the Philadelphians have sunk in their River, and which they call Cheveaux de frize, may be passed by bribing one of the Pilots which carries their own Vessels through them. They are about Twenty feet high, and the Hypothenuse about thirty feet, made of Spars about Eighteen Inches Square, and One foot long, the Wood frame pretty well joined; and the Side view of it is thus.



It is about 16 or 18 feet wide, and the lower part will contain about 15 or 20 Tons of Stones. They bar the Channel across in this manner.



They are guarded by two Brigs which carry 18 Pounders, and a floating Battery which carries Ten 12 Pounders; but they are not Manned with Sailors. I should be very sorry to hear of the destruction of so fine a City, but should rejoice to hear of two or three Men of War passing through or weighing up their Cheveaux de frise, and taking their Vessels; that they may be convinced, that nothing is impossible to the British Tars, and that 'tis in vain to contend with Great Britain.

We are all hearty and in good Spirits. The People from the Country are coming in and enlisting daily. On the 16th. February Francis Proctor with Seventy Montrosses Sailed for Carolina in a Brig.

On the 17th. Fleet sailed from the Old Kill Road;

the Pilot left them about three Leagues distance from the False Cape, steering to the Southward.

On the 27th. a French Tartan Arrived with Arms and Powder, a Brig belonging to one Hodges of this place with 300 Stand of Arms 24 Tons of Powder and Linnin from Amsterdam.

Our floating Battery is Launched, she is to mount Eighteen 9 Pounders, 200 Men and 18 Oars to be stationed at the Fort, where Two Piers are to be sunk to swing the Chain; A Brig a three New York Pilot Boats arrived with Powder, the Brig was a Sloop Lengthened at New York, she is purchased by the Congress to carry 110 Men and to Mount sixteen 4 Pounders, and 16 Oars. They have been trying to Sink Shiver De Frieux at Marcut's Hook. The Association Act does not take the effect they expected, they talk of a Convention and lay aside the Assembly but it is opposed.

Lee set off the 15th. of March with about 100 Men, (that he brought with him from Virginia, There are several Companies going to New York this Week if they can get in Cloaths.

Major Coats sets off with a considerable Sum of Gold and Silver the 28th. of this Month for New York to go to Quebec. There is a great many people who want to get on board His Majesty's Ships if they could tell how. They go on very brisk with their Frigates, the Guardship will be launched next week, she that belonged to New York is now called the Lexington Captain Barbut; I believe she will not be readily manned, if the people could get any encouragement to go into His Majesty's Service and be sure of a Discharge at the end of the Trouble for a great many has engaged out of necessity, but are very unwilling. They have used the Prisioners very ill that was taken at Egg Harbour put five of them in a Dungeon in Irons.

The Assembly have passed an Act to raise 1500 Men more, 1000 Rifle and 500 Musquet Men. There is about 2000 Stand of Arms and about Seventy Tons of Powder come in since the 13th. February. They expect many Vessels and there is several going out to Sea. There is a great many New England Vessels here for Flour and other Provisions, which will be ready to sail next week, I wish we could have a Cruizer or two to intercept them

[J. K. TO GOVERNOR TRYON]

New York April 26th. 1776

Several expresses have lately arrived to General Washington from the Northward, who bring disagreable Intelligence from the Army in Canada, and has occasioned a meeting of the General Officers in Town. —All things are kept a profound Secret and scarce anything to be got out of them,—but from the best intelligence they have been severely drub'd in that Quarter, some say the Rebels have lost 1600 Men, some say more, some say less—be that as it may they are quite Crest fallen—General Washington sent his Aid de Camp to Philadelphia to the Congress with some News or Dispatches he would not trust by any other person, and last night or this Morning sent one of his Officers to the Congress.

It is said that General Wooster, in Order to suppress Idolatry obstructed the Host on Easter Sunday and shut up some of the Churches grosly insulting the people. This excited the indignation of the Canadians and a [1] Putnam was in command at New York until the arrival of Washington, April 13, 1776.

Religious Frensy seized them. They are determined to support Government to the utmost. A large Body of them have offered their Service to Carlton there are said to be between Two and three thousand Men—The Indians have received their presents as usual by the Missisipy—and that they have taken up the Hatchet—The People of Albany are greatly alarmed—Wooster has thrown the blame of his imprudence on one Walker who it is said is under an Arrest by order of the Congress—A Report prevails that Lee has given himself up to Lord Dunmore with Five hundred Men, after fleecing the Congress of all their Gold and Silver,—what gives Credit to this report is that Lewis Morris Junr. his Aid de Camp is returned and appears without any Military mark of Distinction—General Thompson appeared to leave this place with great regret and the Troops went off with great reluctance, nay much against their wills, and they were obliged to pay them well to get them off—It is supposed about three thousand went with the last Embarkation, a number of Negroes said to belong to the Tories are in the Army—The Colledge is taken for Barracks, And the Inhabitants not suffered to Walk the Streets after Ten o'Clock at night without the Countersign—Several Houses on the Church ground have been pulled down.

Sir,

Tho personally unknown to you I cannot deny myself the satisfaction of acquainting you of the Spirited behaviour of Captain Bromedge in the attack at the Watering place on the 7th. Instant when the Enemy treacherously fired upon the Seamen on Shore. Notwithstanding they have secreted their loss it appears by the Affidavit of a Countryman who was on the spot a few Hours after the Action that the Rebels had Twenty four Men killed and Sixteen Wounded. The particulars of this affair I presume you will receive from Captain Parker. Duplicate.

Chatham, In Halifax Harbour, June 2d. 1776.

Sir,

I am to acquaint you that the Canceaux arrived here Yesterday and that I have received the following Orders and Letters, with the Several papers referred to in them, and also duplicates of other Letters and Orders, which have been received before and Acknowledged.

Orders

April 18th. 1776. To send the Fowey to Newfoundland and to deliver a Pacquet inclosed to Captain Montagu.

4th— To Purchase a Ship at Boston called the Britania, and to Establish her as a Sloop by the Name of the Albany, to appoint Lieutenant Mowat to Command her, and to put a Lieutenant to Command the Canceaux.

12th— That the Marines sent from the Ships to the Battalions should be discharged by Pay List.

18th. To take Lieutenant Mowat in the Canceaux under my Command—

Letters

18th— Enclosing to me Lists of the Several Vessels sent under the different Convoys to America &ca

19th. Relative to Cruizers being sent off Bermuda, for the Protection of the homeward bound West India Trade.

Respecting the Orders, I must inform you that the Ship Lady Gage, which by my Letter of the 20 May, I acquainted you I intended to purchase in lieu of the Britannia (which Ship was destroyed at Boston at the Evacuation of that place,) was upon being Surveyed by the proper Officers found insufficient for the Metal sent out in the Canceaux; I have therefore purchased another ship every way suitable to their Lordships intentions, and have taken the Necessary measures for Establishing her as a Sloop by the Name of the Albany, agreeable to their Lordships Commands, and shall cause her to get ready for Sea as fast as possible.

The Fowey is now in the River Delaware under Captain Hammond, but I shall lose no time in ordering her to Newfoundland.

With reference to your Letter of the 18th. of April, I am to Inform you that I have been acquainted by Captain Talbot of the Niger, (which Ship arrived here Yesterday and brought me the News of the happy Situation of His Majesty's Affairs in Canada) that the Juno and Blonde with the Transports under their Convoy were as far up the River Saint Lawrence as Cape Chat on the 21st. May, and that the Convoy under the Carysfort and Pearl were then in the Gulph.

Their Lordships may be assured I shall Continue so to dispose of the Ships under my Command, that the Rebels may be as far as possible prevented from holding any intercourse with foreign parts, and that the Utmost vigilance has been Used by his Majesty's Cruizers to hinder their obtaining the Supplies, which from the very great extent of Coast I have to Guard, have unluckily fallen into their hands.

I shall at every opportunity make known, according to their Lordships directions, the Reward intended to be given to the Mate and Seamen of the Ship from Philadelphia (which you inform me has been carried into Bristol by them,) and I flatter myself the Encouragement these Men have met with for their Loyalty and attachment to their Country, will induce others to follow their Example.

In answer to your Letter of the 19th. April signifying their directions that I should send occasional Cruizers off the Bermuda Islands for the Protection of the West India Trade, you will please to Acquaint their Lordships I shall pay all the Attention in my power to that Service but they will be pleased to observe that notwithstanding the number of ships that have sailed from England for this Country, I have been joined by no more than the Milford, which I cannot remove from Boston Bay, the Greyhound is now here, and which I must detain to assist in Convoying the Transports with the Troops and other ships from hence, which are expected to move in a few days, and the Canceaux that arrived here but yesterday which I intend to send express to Quebec in a few days with the General's and my Dispatches, I will however as soon as it is possible Comply with their Lordships requisition on this head.

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham in Halifax Harbour 8th. June 1776.

Sir

By a Letter from Captain Banks of the Renown of the 24th. past* he informs me that a few days before, he had sent his Boats with those of the Experiment Manned and Armed to destroy a small Rebel Privateer which had run ashore in one of the Channels leading to Boston; That in this attempt his First Lieutenant Mr. Harris was killed, and Seven more Men of the party were either killed or Drowned by the Barge oversetting at the instant she had got alongside the Vessel, upon which the other Boats were obliged to retire, and by the account of a Deserter who arrived at Nantasket, the Captain and several of the Men belonging to the Privateer were killed in this Action, but I am sorry to inform you that we find she had a few days before taken the Hope Ordnance Vessel mentioned in my former Letter. I cannot upon this occasion omit repeating my earnest request, that Stores of such great importance, and upon which so much depends, may be sent out in Ships of some considerable Force, and under the Command of a King's Officer. For as, the generality of the Masters of Merchant Ships and persons of little property or consideration and easily to be Bribed, their Treachery must be productive of the most fatal consequences which there is great reason to suspect was the cause of this valuable Ship the Hope being taken.

The Bowman Transport, one of the Flora's Convoy

* Suppose May 1776

arrived here last night by which Ship I have information, that a few days after their departure from the River Clyde, they met with a Gale of Wind which occasioned a seperation of the Fleet. On approaching this Coast the Bowman at different times, fell in with several others of their Convoy, which parted Company at the time she did, until Seven of them were collected together, and upon St. George's Bank they spoke the Merlin Sloop, by which Ship they were informed of the Evacuation of Boston, and had directions to proceed to this place and there are now four of them off the Harbour. I have adopted proper measures for these Ships being intercepted as they come upon this Coast, that instead of going to Boston they may be conducted to the place where the Army may be.

Chatham, In Halifax Harbour,
June 8th. 1776.

Sir,

I herewith Inclose you a Copy of a letter I received from General Howe representing that, as the Transport Department which was already very extensive, would during the Course of the ensuing Campaign be greatly increased, it was his Opinion it would be for his Majesty's Service that an Officer of Superior Rank to a Lieutenant should have the direction of the Other Agents; and Applying at the same time that Lieutenant Bourmaster may be appointed a Master and Commander for that purpose.

In order therefore to Contribute every thing in my Power to the Success of the Operations of the Campaign, I gave Lieutenant Bourmaster an Order to Command the Albany for a few days to give him Rank, and †hope their Lordships will be pleased to Confirm him a Master and Commander in Consequence of the Generals request and my opinion of the propriety of the Measure.

[GENERAL HOWE TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

Copy Halifax 25th. May 1776.

Sir,

From the present very extensive Business in the Transport Department, and the certainty of a large encrease of Shipping in the course of this Campaign, I humbly apprehend His Majesty's Service in that Line does require an Officer of Superior Rank, to have the Command and direction of the other Agents: I am therefore induced to make application to you, to appoint Lieutenant Bourmaster to be Master and Commander in the Navy, being at the same time hopeful, this is not an improper request, and that you will believe my Intentions are to Submit the Propriety of the Measure entirely to your better Judgment: Neither should I recommend Lieutenant Bourmaster were he not an old Officer, in addition to his laborious good Services during his employment in this Department, which done, will, I am confident entitle him to your favor. I have the Honor to be, Sir,

Sir,

I have the honor of your Letter of this date and shall always find the Utmost Satisfaction in Complying with any of your requests either of a Publick or Private Nature, but particularly when they happen to be made in favor of an Officer of Lieutenant Bourmaster's Merit and Abilities, and tho' I do not recollect any Precedent for Such a Measure, yet that Nothing may be Wanting on my part which you think, Sir, will contribute to the Success of Our Operations in the approaching Campaign; I shall Venture to take upon me to appoint Lieutenant Bourmaster, Master and Commander for a few days of a Vessel I intend to Purchase for the King, which appointment in justice to that Officers Pretentions and Services as well as your recommendation, I heartily wish my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty will be pleased to Confirm—I have the Honor to be with great regard and Esteem.

Sir,

I acquainted you in my Letter of the 9th. of June, that I had Appointed Mr. Evan Nepean Purser of the Falcon, and my Secretary, Purser of the Roebuck, in the room of Mr. James Mason, whose Death was reported to me by Captain Linzee of the Falcon, but as that Information is since found to be groundless, I have withdrawn the Warrants I had Signed on that occasion.

Captain Bellew of His Majesty's Ship Liverpool having acquainted me in his Letter of the 10th. past, (a /Copy of which I inclose for their Lordships information) that Mr. Richard Boger his Second Lieutenant is taken Prisoner by the Rebels I have Appointed Mr. Richard Hinckley Midshipman on board His Majesty's Ship Chatham Second Lieutenant of His Majesty's Ship Liverpool in his room, which Appointment I hope their Lordships will be pleased to confirm, by sending out a Commission for him.

Enclosure A

[CAPTAIN BELLEW TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

(Copy)

Liverpool, Hoar Hill road, 10th. June 1776.

Sir | .

Captain Græme of the Kingsfisher having joined me at this place the 7 inst. and taken a Brig from Cape Francois laden with Melasses bound to this Port, I have Approved of his sending her to Halifax, more from thinking it Necessary you should be acquainted Sir with the Situation of His Majesty's Ships here, than the Value of the Seizure, which is by no Means equal to the loosing five Men for an uncertain time. I arrived here the 2d. May from Virginia in Consequence of an Order from Captain Hamond on the 6th. we went up the Delaware to Water as far as a few Miles above New Castle, where we was Attacked two different days, by fourteen Row Gallies carrying each One large Cannon, either an Eighteen, Twenty four, or Thirty two pounder, the River being very Wide and the Channel very Narrow they took Care to keep at that distance which made our fire very Uncertain, at no time So near as a Mile, in general much more, we fired away an immense quantity of Powder and Ball, to no other purpose than killing about thirteen Men, and disabling three of their Gallies, the Roebuck had One Man killed, one Shot through my Bowsprit and both our Sails and rigging much torn, Captain Hamond left this place the 16th. May to go to Virginia, since which time

I have heard nothing from him, his Orders to Me were to join him in Hampton road when in want of Provisions or Water; although I have a good quantity of the latter On board, yet, owing to the putrified State of it, which I fear Causes the Unhappy Sickness among my people I shall be under the Necessity of repairing Soon to Some place to procure What is better. I propose to try the probability of getting it at New York, rather than at Virginia, for this reason, Captain Græme who run thither on missing Me here, being then Cruizing off, neither Saw or Could learn any thing of any Ship Whatever; I cannot Account for the removal of so large a Number of Vessels as were at Norfolk, only their being gone up Some of the Fresh Water Rivers.—

You will pardon me Sir, for observing that tho' not less than Five or Six Ships is equal to a total interception of the Trade of this river yet the Necessary Articles of their Support Such as Salt, Rum, Melasses and All kinds of Cloathing is advanced in its Price at least three hundred ℔ Cent. some Articles Much More.

I have only taken a small Vessel laden with Linnen, and Twelve thousand Dollars out of a Spanish Snow which I sent to Norfolk and by the Mark on it, I have all reason to believe, to be the property of Willen and Morris[1] at Philadelphia two most Notorious Rebels. There has been some time past laying in Cape Mary road a large Ship Privateer of Eighteen Eighteen pounders, a Brig of Sixteen Sixes and Fours, and a Sloop of Ten Six pounders; they have given Me but One Opportunity of Seeing them at Sea when they drew me upon the Over falls, but having a Good Pilot, I escaped touching the Ground, and they got into the road again, where is not more than fifteen feet Water.

I am informed by very good Authority they will have in less than a Month four Ships of thirty Guns each, at Philadelphia, fit for Sea.—

I believe Captain Hamond informed you of my very great misfortune in having been taken by the Rebel Privateer, now in my Sight, my Tender, with a Lieutenant & Twenty Nine Men.—

If Sir I should not meet with any Supplies of Provisions and Water Soon, or this Rage of Sickness among my people Continues under these Circumstances, I hope you will think me blameless in repairing to Halifax, tho' both my Main and Fore Masts are bad, nothing but the loss of One of them Can make me leave this Station. I am well informed that these three lower Counties are ripe for Arms, had they the least Support, Several have been off to me for protection in Case of Need, and declare the Tyranny of their present rulers to be insupportable.

Inclosed is the State and Condition of His Majesty's Ship under my Command and of His Majestys Sloop Kingsfisher.

I have the Honor to be | Sir,

Your most Obedt. and
Very Hble Servant

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham off Staten Island near
New York the 8th. July 1776.

Sir,

I am to acquaint you of my Arrival at this place with His Majesty's Ships under my Command and the whole Fleet of Transports, Victuallers, and Storeships, under their Convoy, fortunately without any loss or separation the 3rd. Instant, and that His Majesty's Troops under the command of General Howe were landed on that and the next day on Staten Island without any Opposition or interruption, the Inhabitants having immediately on our landing surrendered and put themselves under the protection of His Majesty's Arms, Two hundred of them are Embodied and the whole Island have taken the Oath of Allegiance and fidelity to the King, and I have the pleasure to acquaint you that a party of Sixty Men with their Arms made their Escape from the Province of New Jersey a few days ago and joined the King's Troops.

General Howe having Yesterday represented to me that it will be attended with many salutary consequences of Two of His Majesty's Ships were Stationed up the North or Hudson's River to cut off and intercept any Supplies coming to New York to give Protection to His Majesty's well disposed Subjects, and answer many other good purposes, I have given Orders to Captain Parker of the Phœnix (taking the Rose under his Command) to proceed the first favourable Opportunity upon this Service, tho' from the number of Batteries they will have to pass, it will be an Arduous and important undertaking but I hope will be attended with the wish'd for success. Their Lordships will please to observe there will then remain with me for our future operations only the Chatham, Asia, Centurion, and Greyhound Frigate, which I hope will be sufficient, as it appears to me the General does not think himself sufficiently strong to proceed further 'till the Arrival of the Reinforcement under Lord Howe, and Commodore Hotham, which my Cruizers are Stationed off Rhode Island and other places to intercept and direct hither.

I am sorry to find myself under the necessity of sending you the disagreable Intelligence I received from Captain Symons of His Majesty's Ship Cerberus whom I joined in my passage to this place, that Four Transports, part of the Flora's Convoy (two of them the Crawford and Oxford) had been taken in their passage by the Rebels, one of which was retaken by Captain Symons, but after the Troops had been removed out of her into one of the others; and in this Ship he found a Journal of the Prize Master, who was a Lieutenant[1] of one of the Rebel Vessels[2] which attack'd the Glasgow, and as an Account of that Action is mentioned in it, in /justice to Captain Howe I transmit it to you for their Lordships and Your information.

His Majesty's Ship Mercury with Dispatches for General Howe and me from General Clinton and Sir Peter Parker arrived at Sandy Hook the 1st. of June, and not finding me there was Ordered to Halifax which has prevented my receiving them, and of consequence sending you a particular Account of Sir Peter's proceedings to the Southward, but by the information of [1] James Josiah. [2] The Andrew Doria.

Captain Parker of the Phœnix, Captain Montagu in the Mercury left the Bristol the 21st. of May at Cape Fear and was then preparing to proceed to Charles Town, South Carolina.

The Light Horse not being ready to embark on our leaving Halifax, for want of Forage, and the Tamer being hourly expected from the Bay of Fundy, having under her Convoy a number of small Vessels with that Article, I have directed Captain Talbot of the Niger to continue at Halifax, and with the Tamer (when the Transports are ready) to Convoy them to Sandy Hook at which place I daily expect their Arrival.

The Savage which I left refitting as soon as she is ready I have Ordered as a Convoy and protection for the Collery to be carried on at Spanish River in the Island of Cape Breton, for the Supply of His Majesty's Troops and the Inhabitants of Halifax, conformable to a Scheme of General Howe's.

I am

Sir

Your most Obedient Servant,

M: SHULDHAM

Philip Stephens Esqr.

Endorsed Recd. 10 Aug 1776 | Answd. 6. Septr.

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO PHILIP STEPHENS]

Chatham off Staten Island 24th. July 1776.

Sir,

On the arrival of Lord Howe at this place a few days ago, I was not a little surprized to find that on His Lordship's calling off Halifax, He was informed by Commissioner Arbuthnot that there was no intimation left with him to what place His Majesty's Squadron under my Command and the Transports under my Convoy had proceeded, This indeed, if Fact, would have been a very gross and unOfficer-like Omission, of which I think it my duty to acquit myself, by sending you herewith a Copy of a Letter I wrote to, and left with the Commissioner a few days before my Departure from Halifax, which was delivered to him by my Secretary, which he acknowledged the receipt of, but which in the Multiplicity of Business he is Engaged in, in his several Departments, I presume he must have forgot or mislaid, and therefore beg you will please to communicate it to their Lordships for my Justification.

I am

Sir

Your most Obedt. Servant

M: SHULDHAM

Philip Stephens Esqr.

Enclosure A

[VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM TO COMMISSIONER ARBUTHNOT]

(Copy)

Chatham in Halifax Harbour the 5th. June 1776.

Sir

In case the following Measures which I judge to be necessary for His Majesty's Service, should not be carried into execution before my departure from this place, I think it expedient to make you acquainted with them, that the proper Orders for the purposes hereafter mentioned may be given, when the Command in this Port may devolve on you.

1st.

Her Orders are left with you

I intend the Savage, as a Convoy and protection for the Collery to be carried on at Spanish River in the Island of Cape Breton, for the Supply of His Majesty's Troops and the Inhabitants of this place; and her Commander must have Orders conformable to the Scheme of General Howe, a Copy of which you herewith receive.

2d.

The Tamer is expected with Forage for the Army, which is to be distributed to the several Ships left there to take on board the Light Dragoons, and carry them to join the Army at New York. These Ships (with any others that may chuse to avail themselves of the Convoy) are to Sail under Convoy of the Niger,† whose Commander must be particularly enjoined to take uncommon pains to prevent any of the Ships committed to his care being separated from him; The Embarkation of this Regiment and their Sailing, must be as soon as possible after the Arrival of the Forage, & in case there should be more Forage purchased for the King in the Bay of Fundy, than can be brought round to this place by the Tamer's Convoy, then the Tamer is to take with her so many Vessels as may be sufficient to contain it, proceed to the place or places where it may be, And after it is put on board the Vessels intended to receive it take them under Convoy, adopting every precaution to prevent separation, and proceed to the Hook, at the Entrance of New-York.

Captain Talbot's Orders are left with you.

3d.

Relative to the Ships that may arrive expecting to find the King's Forces at this place; such as need no Convoy must be directed to follow Us, and those of no Force must wait until an opportunity offers for their being protected on their passage to New-York, which may be expected soon to happen, by the Sailing of the Niger.

4th.

You will be pleased to take the necessary Measures for getting the Albany ready for Sea, as soon as the King's Service in general, dependant on your Office will admit; And whereas I have thought it expedient to impress every fifth Man out of Ships arriving at this Port, you will please to give directions for the same practice being continued, as there is no other resource to fill the Vacancies in His Majesty's Ships occasioned by Deaths, Desertions, and other Accidents.

I am

Sir

Your most Obedt. Servant

M SHULDHAM.

Mariot Arbuthnot Esqr.

The Letter, of which the above is a Copy, was deliver'd to Commodore Arbuthnot by me at Halifax, and which he acknowledged the receipt of to me.

Enclosure A

[LORD HOWE TO VICE ADMIRAL SHULDHAM]

(Copy)
Shuldham By the Viscount Howe, Vice Admiral of the White, and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed and to be employed &ca. in North America.

Whereas there is not any apparent Necessity for the longer detention of His Majesty's Ship the Bristol in which Your Lordship is embarked, with respect to the military Operations impending, or proposed to be undertaken for the King's Service, by His Majesty's Land Forces in this and the adjacent Provinces; You are therefore to repair in the said Ship with all convenient diligence to Portsmouth: Being upon your arrival there, to make the same known to the Secretary, that you may receive Orders from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for your future Conduct, and the further appointment of the Ship.

Your Lordship is at the same time to direct Captain Raynor to forward in the charge of a trusty Officer, by Express, the several Dispatches for the Admiralty and Secretary of States Offices, transmitted herewith; to be delivered as they are respectively addressed—

Given on board His Majesty's Ship the Eagle at New York the 27th. day of December 1776. HOWE.

To
Vice Admiral
The Right Honble. Lord Shuldham, | Bristol.
By Command of the Vice Admiral.
